WASHINGTON, Wednesday, April 18.

SERENADE TO THE PRESIDENT.

At 6 o'clock this evening a procession of soldiers and sailors, and such of their friends as sympathize with them in their grateful acknowledgments to the President for his order lately issued directing the Heads of Departments to give preference in appointments and promotions in the subordinate offices to persons who have rendered honorable service in the army and navy, was formed, and marched to the Executive Mansion, with the Marine Band, to serenade President JOHNSON, who signified to the Committee that he would accept the compliment. A very large number of persons of both sexes were previously on the ground waiting to witness the demonstration. At 6:15 the band played several patriotic airs, when the President made his appearance, and was greeted with huzzas by the assembled thousands. He took a stand on the coping of the wall near the carriage-way on the north side of the Mansion, when he was addressed by the soldiers and sailors, by one of their number in highly complimentary terms, who concluded by saying, in return for your kindness we can but offer our sympathies and prayers, and trust that an All-wise Providence, who has brought our nation through a baptism of blood, and to whom we now consecrate it anew free from Slavery, and by a nation's tears, will so guide and direct you that you may calm the troubled waters, harmonize public opinion, and restore our whole blessed country once more to peace and prosperity.

President JOHNSON said: It is not affectation in me to say that language is inadequate to convey the heartfelt feelings produced on this occasion by your presence here and by the presentation of your sentiments, as expressed by your representative in his address and in the resolutions which you have thought proper to adopt. I confess that in the peculiar posture of public affairs, your presence and address give encouragement and confidence to me in my efforts to discharge the duties incumbent upon me as Chief Magistrate of the Republic, and in what I have to say, I shall address you in the character of citizens, sailors and soldiers. I shall speak to you on those terms and on none others. I repeat my thanks for the manifestation of your approbation and of your encouragement. [Applause.] We are to-day involved in one of the most critical and trying struggles that have occurred since this Government came into existence. Nations like individuals must have a beginning, must have a birth. Struggling into existence a nation passes through its first trying ordeal. It is not necessary for me now to carry your minds back to the struggle when this nation was born. It is not necessary for me to allude to the privations and hardships of those who were engaged in that struggle to achieve the national birth. It is not necessary to point to the blood shed and the lives lost in accomplishing that result. The next ordeal through which a nation has to pass is when it is called upon to give evidence that it has strength, capacity, and power to maintain itself among the nations of the earth. In giving such evidence we passed through the war of 1812, and through the war with Mexico, and we passed through all the struggles that have since occurred up to the beginning of the rebellion. This was our second ordeal. But a nation has another test still to undergo, and that is to give evidence to the nations of the earth and to its own citizens that it has power to resist internal foes. That it has strength enough to put down treachery at home and treason within its own borders. [Cheers.] We have commenced that ordeal, and I trust in God we will pass through it successfully. [Cheers.] I feel complimented by the allusion of your representative to the fact that I stood in the Senate in 1860 and 1861, when the nation was entering on this third ordeal, and raised my voice and hand against treason, treachery and traitors at home. [Cheers and cries of "Good."] I stand here to-day holding to and maintaining the same principles which I then enunciated. [Cheers.] I stand here to-day opposing traitors and treason whether they be in the South or in the North. [Loud cheers.] I stand here to-day as I then stood using all my powers, mental and physical, to preserve this nation in passing through the third phase of its existance. The organized forces and combined powers that recently stood arrayed against us are disbanded and driven from the field. But it does not follow that there are still no enemies against our present form of Government and our free institutions. [Applause.] I then stood in the Senate of the United States denying the doctrine of separation and secession. I denied then, as I deny now, that any State has the right of its own will to separate itself from the other States, and thereby to destroy the Union and break up the Government. And I think I have given some evidence that I have been sincere and in earnest. And now I want to know why it is that the whole train of slanderers and calumniators and traducers have been barking and snapping at my heels? [Cheers.] Why is at that they array themselves against me? Is it because I stand on the side of the people? And when I say "the people," I include the soldiers and sailors. [Cheers.] Why is it that they are arrayed in traducing and villifying and calumniating me? Where were they during the Rebellion? [A Voice—"At home in bed."—Laughter.] In the Senate I raised my voice against it, and when it was believed that it would be to the interest of the nation and would assist in putting down the rebellion, did I not leave my place in the Senate?—a place of emolument, ease and distinction, and take my position where the enemy could be reached and where men's lives were in danger? [Cheers, and cries of "That's so.] While I was thus exposed personally and publicly, and in every way, some of my present traducers and calumniators were far removed from the foe, and were enjoying ease and comfort. [Cheers and laughter.] But I care not for them; I care not that slander, the foul whelp of sin, has been turned loose against me. I care not for all that; and, let me tell you here to-day, that, although pretty well advanced in life, I feel that I shall live long enough to live down the whole pack of traducers and slanderers. [Applause.] They have turned the whole pack loose to lower me in your estimation. [Voice—They cannot do it.] Tray, Blanche and Sweetheart, little dogs and all, come along snapping and snarling at my heels. But I heed them not. [Cheers.] The American people, citizens, soldiers and sailors, know that from my advent into public life to the present moment, I have always stood unyieldingly and unwaveringly the advocate and defender of their rights and interests. [Cheers.] We are now in the nations, third ordeal; we are not yet through it. We said that States could not go out of the Union; we denied the doctrine of secession, and we have demonstrated that we were right. We demonstrated it by the strong arm; yes, the soldiers and the sailors—God bless them!—have demonstrated by their patriotic hearts and strong arms, that States have not the power to leave the Union. [Applause.] What followed? The Confederate armies were overpowered and disbanded, and there was a willingness on the part of the people of those States to come back, be obedient to the laws, and acknowledge the supremacy of the Constitution of our fathers. For what have we passed through this third ordeal? It was to establish the principle that no State had the power to break up the Government; it was to put down the rebellion. The rebellion has been put down, and for what? Was it to destroy the States? [Voices—"Never!"] For what have all these lives been sacrificed and all this treasure expended? Was it for the purpose of destroying States? No; it was for the purpose of preserving the States in the Union of our fathers. [Cheers.] It was for that you fought—it was for that I tried not to break up the Government, but to put down the rebellion and preserve the Union of the States. That is what we have been contending for, and to establish the fact that the nation can lift itself above and beyond intestine foes, and treason, and traitors at home. When the rebellion in Massachusetts was put down, did that put Massachusetts out of the Union and destroy the State? When the rebellion in Pennsylvania was put down, did that destroy the State and put it out of the Union? So when the recent great rebellion was put down, and the Constitution and laws of the country restored, the States engaged in it, the rebellion being crushed, the law restored and the Constitution acknowledged in them, stand in the Union, constituting a part of the glorious and bright galaxy of States. [Loud cheers.] In passing through this ordeal, what has been done in Tennessee under the direction of my lamented predecessor? We commenced the work of restoration; we succeeded before I came here in restoring the relations which had existed between Tennessee and the rest of the Union with one exception, and that was the relation of representation. I came to Washington, and under extraordinary circumstances succeeded to the Presidential Chair. What then? The Congress of the United States had adjourned without prescribing any plan. I then proceeded as I had done in my own State under the direction of the Government to restore the other States. And how did we begin? We found that the people had no Courts, and we said to the judges, the district-attorneys and the marshals, "Go down and hold your Courts; the people need the tribunals of justice to be opened." Was there anything wrong in that? The Courts were opened. What else? We looked out and saw that the people down there had no mails; they had been interrupted and cut off by the operation of the rebellion. We said to the Postmaster-General, "Let the people have facilities for mail communication and let them again begin to understand what we all feel and think—that we are one people." We looked out again and saw that there was a blockade, that the custom-houses were all closed. We said, "Open the doors of the custom-house and remove the blockade; let trade and commerce and the pursuits of peace be restored," and it was done. We thus travelled on step by step, opening Custom-houses, appointing Collectors, establishing mail facilities and restoring all relations that had been interrupted by the rebellion. Was there anything undertaken to be done here that was not authorized by the Constitution; that was not justified by the great necessities of the case; that has not been clearly consonant with the Constitution and with the genius-spirit of our Government? [Cheers.] What remained to be done? One other thing remained—to demonstrate to the civilized and pagan world that we had passed successfully through the third ordeal of our national existence, and proved that our Government was perpetual. A great principle was to be restored, which was established in our Revolution, when our fathers were contending against the power of Great Britain. What was one of the principal causes of their complaint? It was that they were denied representation. They complained of taxation without representation. [Cheers.] One of the great principles laid down by our fathers, and which fired their hearts, was that there should be no taxation without representation. How, then, does the matter stand? Who has been usurping power? Who has been defeating the operation of the Constitution? And what now remains to be done to complete the restoration of these States to all their former relations with the Federal Government, and to finish the great ordeal through which we have been passing? It is to admit representatives. [Cheers.] And when we say admit representatives, what do we mean? We mean representation in the constitutional and law-abiding sense, as was intended at the beginning of the Government. The Constitution declares in express terms, that each House, the Senate and House of Representatives, each acting for itself, shall be the judge of the returns, election and qualifications of its own members. It is for each House to settle that question under the Constitution and under the solemn sanction of an oath. And can we believe that either House would admit any member into its body to participate in the legislation of the country who was not qualified and fit to sit in that body and participate in its proceedings? They have the power—not the two Houses, but each House for itself. The Constitution further declares that no State shall be deprived of its equal suffrage in the Senate of the United States without its consent. Then, where do we stand? All that is needed to finish this great work of restoration is for the the two Houses, respectively, to determine the question. Oh! but some one will say, "A traitor might come in." The answer to that is that each House must be the judge, and if a traitor presents himself, cannot either House know that he is a traitor? [Applause.] And if he is a traitor, can they not kick him out of the door, and send him back, saying to the people who sent him, "You must send us a loyal man." [Cheers, and a voice, "That's logic."] Is there any difficulty about that? [No, no, and cheers.] If a traitor presents himself to either House, cannot that House say to him, "No, you cannot be admitted into this body. Go back. We will not deny your people the right of representation, but they must send a loyal representative. (Cheers.) And when the States do send loyal representatives, can you have any better evidence of their fidelity to the Constitution and the laws? There is no one learned in the Constitution and the laws who will say that if a traitor happens to get into Congress that body cannot expel him after he gets in. That makes assurance doubly sure, and conforms the action of the Government to the Constitution of our fathers. Hence I say, let us stand by that Constitution; and in standing by it the covenant will be preserved. While I have been contending against traitors and treason and secession and the dissolution of the Union, I have been contending at the same time against the consolidation of power here. [Cries of "Good!"] I think the consolidation of power here is equally dangerous with the separation of the States. [Cheers.] The one would totter us and might run into anarchy, while the other would concentrate and eventuate in monarchy. [Cheers, and cries of "Can't do it!"] Oh, but there is an idea abroad that one man can be a despot, that one man can be but a usurper; but that a hundred or two hundred men cannot. Mr. JEFFERSON, the Apostle of Liberty, tells us, and so does common sense, that tyranny and despotism can be exercised by many more rigorously, more vigorously and more tyranically, than by one. What power has your President to be a tyrant? what can he do? what can he originate? Why, they say he exercises the veto power. [Laughter.] What is the veto power? [A VOICE—"To put down the nigger." Laughter.] Who is your President? [Several Voices—"ANDY JOHNSON."] Is he not elected by the people through the electoral colleges. The President is nothing more than the tribune of the people. His office is tribunal in its character. In olden times when tribunes were first elected in the Roman Republic. They stood at the door of the Roman Senate, which was then encroaching on the popular rights and putting the heel of power on the necks of the people. The people chose a Tribune, and placed him at the door of the Senate, so that when that body ventured an oppressive act he was clothed with power to say "Veto, I forbid." Your President now is the tribune of the people. I thank God I am, and I intend to assert the power which the people have placed in me. [Cheers.] Your President, standing here, day after day, and discharging his duty, is like a horse on a tread-wheel, and because he dares differ in opinion in regard to public measures, he must be denounced as a usurper and tyrant. Can he originate anything under the veto power? I think the veto power is conservative in its character and affimative all that can be done by the veto power is to say when legislation is improper, hasty, unwise, unconstitutional, stop action. Wait till this can be submitted to the people, and let them consider whether it is right or wrong. [Applause.] That is all true isn't it? Hence I say that tyranny and power can be exercised somewhere else than by the Executive. He is powerless. All that he can do to check legislation, to hold it in a state of obeyance till the people can consider and understand what is being done then. What has been done? I have done what I believe the Constitution required me to do. [Applause.] I have done what I believe my duty and conscience required me to do. [Cheers.] So believing I intend to stick to my position, relying on the judgment, the integrity and the intelligence of the masses of the American people, the soldiers and sailors expressly. [Cheers.] Then, for my life I cannot see where there is any tyranny. It is very easy to impugn motives, and suspect the purest and best acts of a man's life. If you come forward and propose a certain thing your motives are suspected and condemned. And if you withhold your opinion you are regarded as being opposed to the matter; so that it is very hard to move one way or the other so far as certain persons are concerned on all questions pertaining to the interests of the great masses of the American people; for in them is my hope for the salvation of the country. I am with you citizen soldiers and sailors! Who has sacrificed or perilled more than the humble individual who addresses you? Has not my all been put on it—my life, my property; everything sacred and dear to man has been staked upon it. And can I now be suspected of faltering at the close of this third ordeal of the nation? Where is he in public or private life who has sacrificed more, or who has devoted more of his time and energies to the accomplishment of the great end than I? And I have done it from the promptings of my own heart and conscience. I believe it was right; and with your hearts and your countenance and your encouragement I shall go through on that line. [Cheers and laughter.] And when I come to talk about sailors and soldiers, about this to be done and that to be done, all I want is for you to wait and see. So far as the future is concerned, wait and see if I do not stand by you, although every other may falter and fail. [Cheers.] I want to see measures of policy brought forward that will advance the interests of the people, and of that portion of the people who constitute the gallant and brave men who, in both branches of the service, have upheld the National flag and sustained the country in the recent struggle. I thank you, gentlemen, for the encouragement. I thank you for your countenance on this occasion! It cheers me on and gives me strength to perform the work before me. If we are true to ourselves, if we are true to the Constitution, the day is not far distant when this Government will be restored. Let us go on and restore the Government! Let us enlarge the area of our commerce and trade! and let us not only inspire confidence at home, but respect abroad, by letting the nation resume its career of prosperity and greatness! I know that some will find fault with me and say I am too lenient, too kind, and all that. If we were all to be put to death, or punished, or thrown away, for one offence, or for the second offence, and were to be lost and excluded from society and communion with our fellow-men, how many of us would be left? I have felt, when I have done wrong and repented of it, that I was as sincere and honest as he who had done no wrong at all. Then we must reason with each other, and understand our nature, and what is necessary to restore peace and harmony and concord to a distracted and divided people. In time of war it is right to burn villages, sack cities and devastate fields, to lay waste a country and cripple and reduce the enemy. But in time of peace the converse of that course is precisely the right one, and the true policy of a nation is to rebuild its cities, restore its villages, renew its fields of agriculture, and let all the avocations of peace and prosperity be restored. I know there are some who have been home calculating during the war, and who bring to the consideration of questions of peace, harmony and the avocations of civil life all the feelings of resentment which animated us when the excitement was running high. But take the brave men who sustained the flag on the field and on the wave, and you will find better feelings and better judgment on these questions than you will find with those who have been sitting in the closet and never smelled gunpowder. [Cheers.] Yes; from the private up to the Commanding-General, they know better how to treat the present circumstances than any of those closet patriots and humanitarians. Then, my countrymen, fellow-citizens, soldiers and sailors, let us rejoice that peace has come. Let us rejoice that the relations of the States are about being restored. Let us make every effort we can on proper principles to restore the relations which existed between the Federal Government and the States and I thank God that peace is restored. I thank God that our brave men can return to their families and homes, and resume their peaceful avocations. I thank God that the baleful planet of fire and blood which a short time ago was in the ascendant, has been chased away by the benignant star of peace. Now that star of peace is suspended in the heavens. Let us cultivate the earth and the relations of peace—all those associations which appertain to men in peace. The time is not distant when we can have a political millenium—political jubilee, and when we can proclaim to all the nations of the earth that we are again a united people, and that we have triumphantly passed through our third ordeal—have peace at home and power to bid defiance to all the world. [Loud cheers.] Remember one thing, gentlemen, that in my past life, though slanderers may misrepresent, none can say that I ever deceived or betrayed him. It will be for you to see in the future who will redeem all his promises, and who will be most faithful. I thank you, gentlemen, for the compliment you have paid me.

As the President closed his speech, he was loudly and continuously cheered. The band performed some more patriotic airs, and the immense crowd dispersed.

THE REWARD FOR ARRESTING THE ASSASSINS OF PRESIDENT LINCOLN.

The Secretary of War sent to-day to the House of Representatives the report of the Commission appointed to examine and report upon the claims of parties to the rewards heretofore offered by the Government for the apprehension of the assassin of President LINCOLN and of his accomplices, and for the capture of JEFFERSON DAVIS. It appears that all these offers were put forth by the same authority—that of the Secretary of War—and that the last, so far as regards the sum to be paid for the apprehension of BOOTH should, as it is conceived, be construed as a substitute for the two former. This most important arrest not having been effected at the end of nearly a week after the commission of the crime, a new inducement for securing it was resorted to by the Government by the offer of a greatly increased sum, not, as it is understood, in addition to those announced in the first instance, but as superseding the same, and as representing the full and final reward determined to be proper for the service in question. But so far as concerns the arrest of PAYNE, the two former publications must, it is thought, be deemed substantive and operative offers of reward. Otherwise indeed, as his arrest was effected prior to the date of the last publication, and no offer of remuneration therefore was accordingly made therein, his captor would be left without any compensation. Moreover, as both these offers were equally authoritative, and there is nothing to show that the one issued on the 16th was intended as a substitute for that of the day before, it is concluded, in view of the importance of the apprehension of this conspirator, and of the fact that abundant provision was otherwise subsequently made for the captors of his associate, that half of the sums specified in the two offers, to wit, the full amount of $10,000, should be awarded to those engaged in securing this prisoner. It is next to be observed that before the date of the offer of April 20, there had already been arrested and were in the custody of the Government the conspirators and accomplices of BOOTH, besides PAYNE, SURRATT, MUDD, LAUGHLIN, ARNOLD and SPANGLER. The cases of the arrests of these criminals, therefore, none of whom indeed are alluded to in the publication, are clearly not within the terms of that offer, and it has been perceived that none of them are indicated or apparently contemplated in the offers of the 15th and 16th, where are promised specified rewards for BOOTH and PAYNE alone. It has been concluded, therefore, that neither the Secretary nor parties who effected the apprehension of any of the five arrested at the time, upon suspicion merely, but subsequently ascertained to be conspirators, nor such party or parties as may have furnished information conducing thereto, are entitled to any portion of the reward. But in the case of ATZERODT a specific reward for his arrest is offered in the publication of April 20, and the fact that he was taken on the same day, should not, it is conceived, exclude his captors from receiving such reward, and they are, therefore, concluded to be entitled to the same.

The conclusion is arrived at, that the rewards in question are payable generally as follows: To the parties effecting the arrest of BOOTH, $50,000; to the parties effecting the arrest of HEROLD, $25,000; or to the parties, for they were the same, who arrested both BOOTH and HEROLD, $75,000; to the parties effecting the apprehension of ATZERODT, $25,000; to the parties effecting the arrest of PAYNE, $10,000; to the party or parties furnishing on, or subsequent to April 20, and prior to the arrest of the prisoner in each case, any information which conduced to the arrest of either BOOTH, HEROLD, ATZERODT or their accomplices, a liberal reward.

The Commission in the case of the reward for the arrest of BOOTH and HEROLD, awards as follows:

Brig.-Gen. L. C. Baker, $3,750; Capt. E. P. Doherty, Sixteenth New-York Cavalry, $7,500; E. J. Conger, Detective, $4,000; L. B. Baker, Detective, $4,000; Sergt. Boston Corbett, Sixteenth New-York Cavalry, $2,546; Andrew Wandell, $2,545; Corporals Chas. Zimener, Michael Uriah, John Winter, Herman Newgarten, John Walz, Oliver Lorpay and Michael Hermsley, Sixteenth New-York Cavalry, $2,091 each. The remainder of the reward—namely, $35,000—is distributed among seventeen privates of the same regiment.

In the case of the arrest of ATZERODT, the awards are: To Major Artman, Two Hundred and Thirteenth Pennsylvania Volunteers, $1,250; Sergt. Gemmill, First Delaware Cavalry, $3,598. The remainder of the $25,000 is distributed among seven others.

In the case of the arrest of Payne the reward is thus distributed: Brig.-Gen. H. H. Wells, Provost-Marshal, $625; Col. H. S. Olcott, Special Commissioner, $625; Brevet Major H. W. Smith, A. A. G., $2,500; Richard C. Morgan, Chief Assistant to Col. Olcott, $1,796; Wm. M. Werwensteich, Assistant to Col. Olcott, $1,436; Ely Devoe, Detective, Charles H. Mosch, Detective, and Thomas Sampson, Detective, each $1,500 75, making $10,000.

As to the rewards for the arrest of JEFF. DAVIS, the Commission remark, they were offered by the President in his proclamation of May 2d last, in which it is set forth that the sum of $100,000 would be paid for the arrest within the limits of the United States, so that he could be brought to trial. The Commission say the arrest of this chief traitor was effected on May 10 last, near Irwinsville, Ga., by the Fourth Michigan Cavalry, under the command of Lieut.-Col. B. D. PRITCHARD, who started upon the pursuit with his command from Macon, Ga., on May 7. The reward in this case, however, is also clamed by Lieut.-Col. HENRY HARNDEN, who with his regiment, the First Wisconsin Cavalry, also engaged in the pursuit, and arrived upon the ground but a few minutes after the command of Col. PRITCHARD had taken possession of the camp of DAVIS. Without discussing the charges which have been made by Col. HARNDEN in regard to the course adopted by Col. PRITCHARD upon this pursuit, it will be sufficient to observe that upon a careful consideration of all the evidence, these charges are not deemed to be sustained in any particular; and it is concluded by the Commissioners that the latter official, both in the pursuit and in the capture, acted in entire good faith toward the former, and cannot be held for the momentary unfortunate collision which took place between the two commands. It was recommended by Col. PRITCHARD that all the officers and men, whether present at the seizure or absent on leave, should be included in the distribution of the award. The award is: To Col. Pritchard, $10,000; to Capts. John G. Hathaway and Charles T. Hudson, $728 60 each; to First Lieuts. Ripley, Palmer, Boutell, Buchers, Stanber, Fish and Hazleton; Second Lieuts. Treat, Bennett, Rickford, Southworth, Purinton, Remmington and Murphy, $555 85 each. Three others receive $660; one, $555; one, $271; one, $239; one, $229; ten, $250 each; fifty-one receive $250 each, and about five hundred receive from $166 to $187 each.

The Commissioners were Assistant Adjt.-Gen. TOWNSEND and Judge-Advocate-General HOLT. The Secretary of War, in his communication transmitting the papers, says: "The results of the examination and the conclusion reached by the Commissioners will no doubt be excepted to by many of the claimants. An appropriation will be required for payment and the action of Congress is invited to the subject. The number of claimants adjudged to not be entitled to rewards, under the terms of the published offer, is about one hundred."

THE RELEASE OF C. C. CLAY.

The following are the memoranda in the case of C. C. CLAY, Jr., of Alabama:

Lieut.-Gen. GRANT recommends the release of CLAY because he thinks he may safely be left at large on parole or by amnesty. The manner of CLAY's surrender is sufficient guaranty for his obedience of any parole that might be taken by him to appear when called for. He recommends his release on parole not to leave the limits of his State without permission, and to surrender himself to the civil authorities for trial when called upon.

Hon. HENRY WILSON has no hesitation in recommending the release of CLAY upon parole, and has no doubt that he will be forthcoming when his presence is required by the Government.

Hon. THADDEUS STEVENS says that he would try CLAY as a belligerent unless he was in the conspiracy to assassinate Mr. LINCOLN, which he does not believe; he would confiscate his property and let him go.

R. J. WALKER has known CLAY many years, and pronounces him incapable of the crime of Mr. LINCOLN's assassination. When his escape was certain he surrendered himself in hopes of securing a trial. Among hundreds of loyal men who have conversed with him, none believe CLAY guilty of complicity in the assassination. There is a general desire that if not pardoned he may be paroled.

WAR DEPARTMENT, ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE, WASHINGTON, April 17, 1866.

Major-Gen. N. A. Miles, Commanding, &c., Fortress Monroe, Va.:

ORDERED—That CLEMENT C. CLAY, Jr., is hereby released from confinement and permitted to return to and to remain in the State of Alabama, and to visit such other places in the United States as his personal business may render absolutely necessary, upon the following conditions, viz.:

That he take the oath of allegiance to the United States and give his parole of honor to conduct himself as a loyal citizen of the same, and to report himself in person at any time and place to answer any charges that may hereafter be preferred against him by the United States.

Please report the receipt and execution of this order.

By order of the President of the United States.

E. D. TOWNSEND,
Assistant Adjutant-General.

THE BRANCH MINT AT NEW-ORLEANS.

A joint resolution has been introduced in the Senate by Senator STEWART, discontinuing the Branch Mint at New-Orleans, and authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to remove the machinery and fixtures to Carson City, Nevada, for the mint to be erected at that place.

INTERNAL IMPROVEMENTS.

The Committee on Commerce, after a month's earnest labor, have reported the most important river and harbor improvement bill of many years. The Committee thoroughly discussed the plan of making appropriations simply for continuing the work on the improvements, or of appropriating enough at once for thoroughly completing them, or bringing them as near that condition as possible. The latter was finally agreed upon, and a bill reported which appropriates over three millions of dollars for that purpose. It has this specific provision: "And the money appropriated by this act shall be so applied as to complete or make the nearest approximation to completing the work, for which each specific appropriation is made. The bill also gives the Secretary of War general power to make new surveys or examinations of works in progress, and to change their present plan whenever he deems it advisable; and it specially directs him to cause surveys to be made with a view to the inauguration of new works at some twenty different points, among which are Hell Gate, New-York, and Bridgeport, Conn., and for this purpose it appropriates $250,000—$30,000 of which is to be expended on the Atlantic Coast. The Secretary is directed to make an annual report of his doings to Congress. The following are the chief appropriations of the bill: For extending the breakwater at Portland harbor, Me., $105,111; for improvement of navigation of Hudson River, New-York, $50,000; for preservation of Provincetown Harbor, Mass., $43,068 44; for improvement of Thames River, Conn., $8,000; for extension and repair of breakwater at Burlington, Vt., $27,672; for completion and repair of Delaware Breakwater, Delaware Bay, $107,910; for improving channel of Susquehanna River, below Havre de Grace, Md., $26,400; for continuing improvement of Patapsco River, Md., $5,200; for construction of snag-boats and other apparatus for clearing Western rivers, and for the outfit, working and preservation thereof, $550,000; for improving the mouth of the Mississippi River, $75,000; for improvement of the Mississippi, Missouri, Arkansas and Ohio Rivers, $550,000; for improvement of the Des Moines Rapids, Mississippi River, $200,000; for improvement of the Rock Island Rapids, Mississippi River, $100,000; for improvement of the St. Clair Flats, Michigan, $80,000; for improvement of the St. Mary's River, between Lake Superior and Lake Huron, $50,000; for improvement of Oswego Harbor, N. THE ARMY BILL.

The House made very slow progress on the Army Bill to-day, the chief part of the discussion being confined to amendments to make commissions in the veteran reserve and colored regiments open alike to all officers who have served honorably in the volunteer and regular forces, instead of confining the appointments to officers who have been disabled, or who served with these classes of troops exclusively. But the amendment was lost by three majority, and a proposition to make graduates of the Military Academy eligible to appointment as Second Lieutenants in the colored regiments was so generally opposed that it was withdrawn without a vote. The bill did not gather strength by the proceedings to-day; on the contrary, the sentiment against it seemed increasing, while there are very strong outside influences working in behalf of the principal features of the Senate bill. An amendment mustering out all the unemployed officers of the Veteran Reserve Corps was adopted after a spirited debate.

SLAVE LABOR.

The last bill for slave labor against the United States was audited in the Treasury Department to-day. It was for the work of several slaves belonging to a Charlestonian in repairing Fort Moultrie in the early part of 1861. The claims bore the indorsement of Lieut. FOSTER, Major ANDERSON's engineer, and since Major-General of Volunteers.

THE CAPTURED LOUISIANA BONDS.

The Secretary of the Treasury has telegraphed the following to Gov. WELLS, of Louisiana:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, April 18, 1866.

SIR: The Attorney-General recommends that the bonds captured by Gen. SHERIDAN at Shreveport, which had been deposited by the banks of New-Orleans with the State Auditor, should be returned to the present Auditor of the State of Louisiana. In accordance with this opinion, I will cause the bonds which may be identified as belonging to the banks to be delivered to the State Auditor, and to any duly authorized agent at Washington, or will send the same by express to the State Auditor upon receiving advices from you at the risk of the State. Please make public this decision. Very respectfully,

H. McCULLOCH, Secretary.

It is said there are about two millions of the above-named bonds.

CONFIRMED.

SAMUEL G. COURTNEY was to-day confirmed by the Senate, in Executive Session, as United States Attorney for the Southern District of New-York.

REVENUE APPOINTMENT.

It is generally understood that A. B. SLOANAKER has been appointed Collector of Internal Revenue for the First District of Pennsylvania, in the place of Col. TAGGART.

THIRTY-NINTH CONGRESS.

FIRST SESSION.

SENATE....Wednesday, April 18.

PAY DEPARTMENT IN THE NAVY.

Mr. GRIMES, from the Committee on Naval Affairs, reported the bill passed by the House to provide for the better organization of the pay department of the navy, with an amendment in the first section relative to assistant and passed assistant paymasters.

As amended, the bill reads as follows:

Be it enacted, &c., That from and after the passage of this act the active list of the pay-corps of the navy shall consist of eighty paymasters, forty passed assistant paymasters and thirty assistant paymasters. Paymasters shall be regularly promoted and commissioned from passed assistant paymasters, and passed assistant paymaster from assistant paymasters; and all passed assistant paymasters authorized by this act to be appointed who have heretofore been appointed and commissioned assistant paymasters, and all assistant paymasters hereby authorized to be appointed shall be selected from those who have served as acting assistant paymasters for the term of two years, and who were eligible to appointment in that grade when they were appointed acting assistant paymasters as aforesaid, subject, however, to such examinations as are required by law, and such as may be established by the Secretary of the Navy.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That passed assistant paymasters shall give bonds for the faithful performance of their duties in the sum of fifteen thousand dollars, and that their annual pay shall be at sea fifteen hundred dollars, on other duty fourteen hundred dollars, and on leave or waiting orders twelve hundred dollars.

ASKING FOR MORE PAY.

Mr. WILSON presented several petitions of army officers for increasing pay, which were referred to the Military Committee.

THE ST. LOUIS MILITARY BOARD.

Mr. SHERMAN introduced a resolution calling upon the President to communicate to the Senate the proceedings of the Military Board recently assembled at St. Louis in relation to brevet appointments in the Regular Army, which was adopted.

INDIAN TREATIES.

Mr. DOOLITTLE called up a joint resolution appropriating $127,085 for fulfilling certain treaties with Indian tribes on the Upper Missouri and the Upper Platte Rivers, to be expended by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs, under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior.

The above called forth considerable discussion on the Indian policy of the Government.

The resolution was finally passed.

COLORADO.

Mr. WILSON desired to call up the motion to reconsider the vote by which the Senate refused to admit Colorado, but afterwards gave way to the regular order of business, with the understanding that the Colorado question would be called up to-morrow.

RELIEF OF NAVAL CONTRACTORS.

The unfinished business of yesterday, which was the bill for the relief of certain naval contractors, was taken up.

The pending question was the amendment of Mr. NYE to the amendment of Mr. GRIMES, viz.: to strike out 12 per cent. and insert 15 per cent., so as to make the bill read, that the contractors named shall be entitled to receive the sum awarded them by the Board of Inquiry, provided that the same shall in no case exceed 15 per cent. of the original contract price.

The bill, after a few remarks from Mr. JOHNSON, was postponed until to-morrow.

THANKS TO GEN. HANCOCK.

Mr. WILSON called up the resolution of thanks to Gen. HANCOCK, which was passed.

SOLDIERS' ASYLUM.

Mr. WILSON called up the House resolution appointing managers for the National Asylum for disabled soldiers.

It appoints nine managers, to be divided into three classes, three to serve for six years, three for four, and three for two.

The resolution was passed.

POST-OFFICE APPROPRIATIONS.

Mr. SHERMAN called up the Post-office Appropriation Bill.

Mr. HENDERSON offered an amendment, providing that in all cases in which persons have been appointed as Assistant-Postmasters, either during the recess or the session of the Senate, and whose appointments have been submitted and rejected, or not consented to before the adjournment of the Senate, no money shall be drawn from the Treasury to pay the salaries of such persons under such appointments or under any previous appointments as such Postmasters after said adjournment.

Mr. TRUMBULL suggested such an amendment as would make it impossible for the President to reappoint after the adjournment of the Senate men whose nominations have been rejected by the Senate.

Mr. TRUMBULL said there was a law already on the statute books—a law containing a provision similar to that of Mr. HENDERSON's amendment. The President could not, according to law, fill a vacancy created during the session of the Senate without the advice of the Senate.

The pending bill was then postponed until to-morrow, and the amendment was ordered to be printed.

HABEAS CORPUS.

On motion of Mr. CLARKE, the House bill to amend an act relating to the habeas corpus was taken up.

It was read as follows: An act to amend an act entitled "An act relating to habeas corpus, and regulating judicial proceedings in certain cases," approved March 3, 1863.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America, in Congress assembled: That any search, seizure, arrest or imprisonment made, or other trespasses or wrongs done, or any acts done or omitted to be done, during the said rebellion, by any officer or person under and by virtue of any order, written or verbal, general or special, issued by the President or Secretary of War, or by any military officer of the United States holding the command of the department, district, or place within which such seizure, search, arrest or imprisonment was made, done or committed, or any acts were so done or omitted to be done, either by the person or officers to whom the order was addressed, or by any other person aiding or assisting him therein, shall be held and are hereby declared to come within the purview of the act to which this is amendatory, and within the purview of the fourth, fifth and sixth sections of said act of the 3d of March, 1863, for all the purposes of defence, transfer, appeal, error or limitation provided therein.

And be it further enacted, That when the said order is in writing, it shall be sufficient to produce in evidence the original, with proof of its authenticity, or a certified copy of the same; or if sent by telegraph, the production of the telegram purporting to emanate from such military officer shall be prima facia evidence of its authenticity; or if the original of such order or telegram is lost or cannot be produced, secondary evidence thereof shall be admissible as in other cases.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That the right of removal from the State Court into the Circuit Court of the United States, provided in the fifth section of the act to which this is amendatory, may be exercised as well after the appearance of the defendant and the filing of his plea, or other defence in said Court, or at any term of said Court subsequent to the term when the appearance is entered, and before a jury is empanneled to try the same; but nothing herein contained shall be held to abridge the right of such removal after final judgment in the State Court; nor shall it be necessary in the State Court to offer or give surety for the filing of copies in the Circuit Court of the United States; but on the filing of the petition verified as provided in the fifth section, the further proceedings in the State Court shall cease, and not be resumed until a certificate under the seal of the Circuit Court of the United States, stating that the petitioner has failed to file copies in the said Circuit Court at the next term, is produced.

SEC. 4. And be it further enacted, That if the State Court shall, notwithstanding the performance of all things required for the removal of the case to the Circuit Court aforesaid, proceed further in said cause or prosecution before said certificate is produced, in that case all further proceedings shall be void and of no effect, and all parties, judges, officers and other persons thenceforth proceeding thereunder or by color thereof, shall be liable in damages therefor to the party aggrieved, to be recovered by action in a Court of the State having proper jurisdiction, or in the Circuit Court of the United States for the district in which such further proceedings may have been had, or where the party, officer or other person so offending shall be found; and upon a recovery of damages in either Court the party plaintiff shall be entitled to double costs.

SEC. 5. And be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of the Clerk of the State Court to furnish copies of the papers and files in the case to the party so petitioning for the removal, and upon the refusal or neglect of the clerk to furnish such copies, the said party may docket the case in the Circuit Court of the United States, and thereupon said Circuit Court shall have jurisdiction thereon, and may upon proof of such refusal or neglect of the Clerk of the State Court, and upon reasonable notice being given to the plaintiff, require him to file a declaration or petition therein, and upon his default may order a nonsuit and dismiss the case at the costs of the plaintiff, which dismissal shall be a bar to any further suit touching the matter in controversy.

The Committee on the Judiciary recommended the following amendments to be inserted at the close of section 1:

"But no such order shall by force of this act, or the act to which this is an amendment, be a defence to any suit or action for any act done or omitted to be done after the passage of this act."

The amendment of the Committee was adopted.

Mr. EDMUNDS moved to strike out of the first section the words "or other trespasses or wrongs done or committed." He was unwilling to admit in a law that the acts referred to were wrongs.

Mr. HOWARD suggested that the object of Mr. EDMUNDS would be attained by inserting the word "alleged" before the word "trespasses."

Mr. CLARK had no objection to Mr. EDMUNDS' amendment. He thought it would improve the language of the bill.

Mr. TRUMBULL said the language of this bill was copied from a bill already on the statute books, and to which this was amendatory.

Mr. WILLIAMS suggested the substitution of the words, "or any injury to person or property," for those now in the bill.

The amendment of Mr. EDMUNDS was agreed to.

Mr. HOWARD moved to amend the first section by inserting after the words "to whom the order is addressed," the words "or for whom it was intended."

Agreed to.

Mr. EDMUNDS offered an amendment to insert at the close of the first section the following words: "Or so far as it operates as a defence for any act done or committed in any State represented in Congress during the rebellion, and in which, at the time of any such act or omission, martial law was not in force."

He was opposed, he said, to throwing the shield of an ex post facto law over officers who had transcended their powers in regions where there was no occasion for it. He was not in favor of shielding the man who, while recruiting a company in the North, had stolen a horse or committed some other breach of law. He saw no necessity for it. He thought a bill of indemnity, rather than an edict of defence, would best accomplish the purpose.

Mr. COWAN indorsed the amendment of Mr. EDMUNDS and the views expressed by him. He was very well aware of the difficulty of protecting officers in the conscientious discharge of their duty and at the same time of protecting citizens from the tyranny and oppression of malicious officers. The difficulty was how to draw the bill and accomplish both purposes, protecting the officer and doing justice to the citizen. He believed those most entitled to the protection of the Government were the loyal people of the rebel States.

Mr. CLARK hoped the amendment of Mr. EDMUNDS would not be adopted. There were three thousand suits pending in one State which had never succeeded against loyal men and Union officers for acts done in putting down the rebellion. He was surprised that the amendment should have come from Mr. EDMUNDS, but he was not surprised that it should be indorsed by Mr. COWAN.

Mr. EDMUNDS hoped Mr. CLARK would not reject the paper because of the poorness of the indorsers.

Mr. CLARK said that in one State a Court had ruled that an act done in aid of the rebellion was justifiable, but an act done by a Union officer was a crime.

Mr. JOHNSON inquired what authority there was for that statement.

Mr. CLARK said he had the authority of a man who was in Court when such a decision was made.

Mr. JOHNSON said it must have been made by some Justice of the Peace.

Mr. CLARK said it was not a Justice of the Peace. He continued his remarks against the amendment of Mr. EDMUNDS. It was proposed only to protect men who had committed certain acts in obedience to orders.

Mr. CONNESS said rebels were being pardoned every day; amnesty was being granted to rebels every day for the highest of crimes, and why not extend an amnesty to men who had committed these trespasses in the discharge of loyal duties.

Mr. EDMUNDS resumed the floor in defence of his amendment.

Mr. HOWARD spoke against the amendment, as calculated to do wrong to Union officers by exposing them to the political and personal prejudices of civil juries.

Pending the consideration of this bill the Senate went into Executive Session and soon after adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

RELIEF.

On motion of Mr. PATTERSON, the Committee of the Whole was discharged from the further consideration of the Senate bill for the relief of JAMES G. CLARK, and the bill came before the House for consideration.

It appropriates $6,483 96 for the services of Mr. CLARK as Acting Chargé d'Affaires at Brussels from June, 1857, to September, 1858.

The bill was passed.

WISCONSIN RAILROADS.

Mr. PAINE presented memorials of the Wisconsin Legislature, asking the assent of Congress to the change in the route of the Land Grant Railroad from Portage to Bayfield, and thence to Superior, and asking a grant of lands to aid in the construction of so much of the Portage and Superior Railroad as extends from Fon du Lac to Ripon.

The memorials were referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

DACOTAH.

Mr. BURLEIGH, of Dacotah Territory, introduced a bill making a grant of lands to aid in the construction of a railroad and telegraph line from the City of Yorktown to the western line of the State of Minnesota, in the Territory of Dacotah, which was read twice and referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE.

Mr. BURLEIGH also introduced a bill to amend the Agricultural College Act, which was read twice, and referred to the Committee on Agriculture.

PENSIONS.

The House then proceeded to the regular order of business, the call of Committees for reports, and resumed the consideration of the bill reported yesterday from the Committee on Invalid Pensions to increase the salary of the Commissioner of Pensions to $4,000, and that of the Chief Clerk of the Pension Office to $2,500 per annum.

The pending question being on the amendment offered by Mr. PERHAM, yesterday, to strike out the second section of the bill increasing the salaries of the chief examiners, the amendment was agreed to.

Mr. ROSS spoke against the general principle of increasing salaries.

Mr. KASSON supported the proposition to increase the salary of the Commissioner, but thought the salary of the Chief Clerk should not exceed two thousand dollars.

Mr. WASHBURNE, of Illinois, contended that the same argument justifying an increase of salary to the Commissioner of Pensions would apply also to all the heads of bureaus.

The discussion was further participated in by Messrs. Hale, Bingham, Farnsworth, Stevens, Perham and Chanler.

Mr. FARNSWORTH said that if there were any vacancies arising from resignations on account of deficies in salaries, he wanted to have notice, as there were plenty of persons in Illinois ready to take the offices at the present salaries.

Mr. STEVENS said that there were some resignations in consequence of insufficient salaries. The Attorney-General was unable to command the requisite talent at the present salaries, and unless some provision was made for increasing them, that shop would not be able to keep open much longer.

The previous question being moved and seconded, the vote was taken by yeas and nays on the passage of the bill, and resulted—yeas 58, nays 63. So the bill was rejected.

A motion to reconsider was made, and the House refused to lay that motion on the table by a vote of yeas 55, nays 62.

The motion to reconsider was then carried by a vote of 63 to 55.

The morning hour having expired, the bill went over until to-morrow.

THE CAPTURE OF BOOTH.

The Speaker presented a report from the Secretary of War, in reference to the allowance of claims for the apprehension of BOOTH and others, which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

THE PACIFIC RAILROAD.

The Speaker also presented a resolution of the Convention of Texas in favor of a Southern branch of the Pacific Railroad, and asked what disposition should be made of it.

Mr. ROLLINS moved its reference to the Committee on the Pacific Railroad.

Mr. WENTWORTH moved as an amendment its reference to the Reconstruction Committee.

Mr. CONKLING should like to know with what view it was to be referred to the Committee on Reconstruction? Was it with a view to reconstruct a railroad?

Mr. ROSS suggested that it was with a view of never getting a report on it.

The amendment was rejected, and the resolution was referred to the Committee on the Pacific Railroad.

THE ANNIVERSARY OF EMANCIPATION.

The Speaker presented an invitation from colored citizens of the District of Columbia to the members of the House to be present at the celebration of the anniversary of emancipation in the District, at Franklin-square, to-morrow.

Mr. ELDRIDGE suggested its reference to the Committee on Reconstruction. [Laughter.]

Mr. ANCONA inquired whether the invitation included members who had voted against emancipation.

The Speaker remarked that it was addressed to all the members of the House, and that it was only read for information.

THE ARMY BILL.

The House resumed the consideration of the bill to reorganize and establish the army of the United States. The fifth section being under discussion—

Mr. GARFIELD made an amendment, striking out the clause "for officering the Veteran Reserve Corps and colored troops," and providing in lieu of it that the officers of the former shall be appointed from any officers or soldiers of volunteers or regulars who may have been wounded while serving in the army, or have been disabled by disease contracted in the service; and the officers of the latter from those who have served as officers of colored troops, and placing all officers on the same footing in reference to pay, relative rank and promotion within the staff, corps or arm of the service to which they may belong. He spoke in support of his amendment.

Mr. SCHENCK opposed the amendment, as calculated to derange the whole bill and render its recommittal necessary.

After a long discussion, the amendment was rejected; yeas 52, nays 57.

Mr. CONKLING moved to amend by adding to the fifth section the following proviso:

Provided, That all officers of the existing Veteran Reserve Corps, excepting those now actually detailed for duty in the Freedman's Bureau, or otherwise actually employed, shall, on the passage of this act, be mustered out of service, and put upon the same footing with other disabled officers not now in the service.

Mr. STEVENS did not see any necessity for the amendment whatever. Whatever officers were to be appointed for the Veteran Reserve Corps, should be retained, because if mustered out, they would then be entitled to three months' pay.

This amendment was offered so as to carry that out. It merely provided that those officers, except so far as they were now employed, should be put on a par fairly with all other officers disabled by wounds. As to the practical objection made by Mr. STEVENS, he submitted that the expense of mustering out the unemployed officers of the Veteran Reserve Corps, was a matter of no consideration; particularly in view of the fact that if they only got their fair proportion of these commissions not more than nine of them would be recommissioned.

Mr. SCHENCK opposed the amendment as improper and unnecessary. The discretion of mustering out or not was with the Executive, and there he wished to leave it.

The amendment was agreed to—yeas 59, nays 43.

A PERSONAL EXPLANATION.

Mr. INGERSOLL made a personal explanation as to the circumstances which had induced Mr. SHANKLIN to ask yesterday to be excused from further service on the Committee for the District of Columbia. It arose from that gentleman not having had an opportunity to speak against the joint resolution passed some days since, appropriating $2,500 for the temporary relief of the poor of the District. If any injustice was done him by moving the previous question, he (Mr. INGERSOLL) regretted it. He hoped the explanation would be satisfactory, and that the gentleman would make no objection to being reappointed on that Committee.

Mr. SHANKLIN accepted the explanation and apology as entirely satisfactory.

The Speaker thereupon announced the reappointment of Mr. SHANKLIN on the Committee for the District, and the House adjourned.

WEDNESDAY, April 18—P. M.

The price of Gold is nearly one ℘ cent. higher on the sales of the day as compared with the business on Tuesday. Gold for immediate delivery is scarce, and holders are making from an eighth to a quarter of one ℘ cent. a day for its use. The Customs demand averages about half a million ℘ day this week, and as no Gold Interest disbursements are yet making, the Treasury is absorbing most of the Gold held in Bank or on the open market. The price is also supported by the stiff appearance of the Foreign Exchanges, which closed for the Cuba to-day at 107⅞@108 ℘ cent. The business was fairly active for this packet, and would have been larger but that a number of parties provided with Gold for the purchase of Exchange find their profit in lending it out for the consideration of ⅛@¼ ℘ cent. a day to the Shorts in the Gold-Room. This operation is paying at present full one per cent. a week. The harvest, however, to the holders of Gold, is not likely to continue longer than ten or twelve days, as the May Gold Interest will let loose from the Treasury, after Tuesday week, from $2,000,000 to $[illegible],000,000 per day for four or five days, after which the payments will almost equal the Customs receipts. The coupons this season will no doubt be presented, and the registered Interest applied for, with universal promptness, as a large portion of the Foreign Interest is understood to be here already. The proportions of Coupon and Registered Stock to be collected on at all the Treasury Offices in May are about as follows:

	Coupon Bonds.	Registered Stock.
U. S. 5-20s, 1862	$375,000,000	$139,780,000
U. S. 5-20s, 1864	50,000,000	50,000,000
U. S. 5-20s, 1865	30,000,000	35,176,000
Together	$455,000,000	$224,956,000
		455,000,000
Total of all		$697,656,000
At 3 ℘ cent. in Gold		$20,389,968

The proportion to be paid out at the New-York Office is about $15,000,000, and provided the whole is demanded in all the month of May, the probable Customs receipts for that month will be exceeded by about four millions.

The great ease in the Money market, and the reduction of interest to 4 ℘ cent. by the Treasury on the Deposits held for the Clearing-House Banks, have further advanced the Government Stocks and Treasury paper. The 5-20s are 104⅝@¾, the 10-40s 92⅜, and the 7.30s 101@101⅛ this afternoon, and the Compound 6 ℘ cent. Legal-Tenders are selling within ⅛@½ ℘ cent. of the par and the full accumulated interest, and there is some speculation indulged that the Notes of 1864, due in 1867, will go to a small premium for Bank employment. The Stock Brokers are supplied with Money on call at 5 ℘ cent.

The Stock Exchange is excited on the Railway and Miscellaneous Shares, but not altogether in one direction. There is a strong resistance to the further advance in prices—the liveliest contest, and the one most subject to frequent fluctuations, being on Erie. The North West Stocks were buoyant to-day, and Fort Wayne about 1 ℘ cent. higher than before the March report of traffic, the rumored falling off in which was used by the short interest to depress the Stock last week. Among the Miscellaneous Shares Cumberland Coal shows an upward turn, and the Quicksilver Company, after falling below 52, is up again to 53⅛ ℘ cent. At 5:30 P. M. the following quotations were made as compared with Tuesday night:

The day's business at the office of the Assistant Treasurer of the United States was as follows: Total receipts, $2,981,495 81; for Customs, $550,000; on account of Loan, $686,000; Gold notes, $1,157,000; Payments, $1,346,332 22; Balance, $92,257,161 35.

In the United States Circuit Court, at Buffalo, Justice SMALLEY has rendered a decision in relation to the powers of the United States Assessors under the Internal Revenue Law. He decided, in the case of THOMAS BROWN, of Buffalo, that the Assessor has no right to review any assessment made by him and which has been transmitted to the Collector and paid, and that the Assessor has no authority under law to require any man to appear for examination in regard to such returns, nor compel him to submit his books for examination, and that the assessors' proceedings in all such are a nullity and without color of law.

The Missouri Bonds.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

As a holder of the Missouri Bonds, I thank you for your article in to-day's TIMES, on the general funding scheme proposed.

The bonds being recognized at all, I take it there must be a legal obligation, and if there is, cannot a legal remedy be found?

I would propose that the bond-holders get together, address a respectful memorial to the directors of the railroads, and to the Governor of Missouri, and, failing to get proper attention, make a fund to test the matter in the courts, carrying it up, if need be, to the Supreme Bench. This action will settle the value of a first-mortgage bond on property ample for the mortgage, (the Missouri Pacific Railroad, for instance, the bonds of which I hold,) and indorsed by a State that makes many boasts of great power, and of its growing material wealth.

Holders of bonds falling in with the above views may address A., Box No. 1,944, New-York.

ALPHA.

P. S.—We presume that our correspondent understands that a State cannot be sued in the courts. The security to this extent rests wholly on the public faith. The railway corporations can be sued on their indorsements, and on the mortgage lien, which the whole tenor of the superior obligation clearly implies.

NEW-YORK, Wednesday, April 18, 1866.

The receipts of the principal kinds of Produce since our last have been 45 pkgs. Ashes, 2,945 bbls. Flour, 150 bbls. and 1,920 bags Corn Meal, 62 bushels Barley, 1,000 bushels Oats, 150 bushels Malt, 197 bbls. Pork, 741 pkgs. Cut Meats, 538 pkgs. Lard, 18 pkgs. Beef, and 80 bbls. Whisky.

ASHES—Continue quiet at $6 62½@$6 87½ for Pots, and nominally $12 25@$12 50 for Pearls, ℘ 100 lbs. Stock, 1,193 bbls., including 1,149 bbls. Pots, and 44 bbls. Pearls.

COFFEE—Has been quiet at former figures; Java at 26½c.@27c., Native Ceylon at 22c.@23½c., Maracaibo at 19½c.@22½c., Laguayra at 19½c.@21½c., Rio at 16c.@21c., and St. Domingo at 17½c.@17½c., cash, in gold, ℘ lb. An invoice of Rio was reported on private terms.

COTTON—Has been inactive and depressed. Middlings close at 36½c.@38c. ℘ lb. Sales and resales since our last 2,500 bales, against receipts of 1,991 bales. In his circular for the Cuba, Mr. WILLIAM P. WRIGHT gives the following statement of the movements in Cotton since the 1st of September last: Receipts at the ports in the United States, 1,657,000 bales; exports to Great Britain, 886,000 bales; exports to France, 146,000 bales; exports to other foreign ports, 47,000 bales; total exports, 1,079,000 bales; stock on hand, 503,000 bales. Of which during the past week included in the above: Receipts at the ports, 43,000 bales; exports to Great Britain, 37,000 bales; exports to France, 7,000 bales; exports to other foreign ports, 4,000 bales; total exports, 48,000 bales. On the subject of receipts Mr. WRIGHT adds: "All kinds of evidence has proved fallacious, and we are yet in the dark as to how much is still left in the country, particularly in remote and hitherto inaccessible quarters. The Prices Current of the Southern ports, usually so conservative in tone, and slow to express opinions that are not almost facts, have repeatedly declared that the supply was nearly exhausted, and even during the last week they 'believe that within the next two weeks we may look for the decrease in receipts which has been so long predicted and expected.' This of Alabama. From Savannah we have 'the presumption that there is little more to come from the interior.' The New-Orleans sheet has carefully noted the decrease in receipts, only to be disappointed every third week by a sudden increase. In former years there was little difficulty in approximating to the total about the time of the planting of the new crop. This season the close of the cotton year will alone show it, and a dry season and low rivers may even keep some over that date in the interior; but what can possibly be still left, even after this date, is of small importance compared with the prospects for the new crop, especially at the present heavy rate of consumption. Reports are conflicting, but, as nearly as I can see, about one-half of the force of former years will be available for planting. Evidence such as that of Mr. STEPHENS and Ex-Gov. SHARKEY, given without animus, goes to show that the freedman, once disabused of unreasonable expectations, has gone to work for good wages, quite as good, in fact, as the laboring man in the North."

Hoop Skirts—Bradley's Duplex Elliptic and Empress Trail in good demand; S. T. & A. T. Meyer's I X L 1¼-inch tapes, 20 to 40 hoops, 48c. to 73c.; 3-inch tapes, 20 to 40 hoops, 68c. to $1 12.

FLOUR AND MEAL—There has been an unusually active demand, partly speculative, for all sound lots of State and Western Flour, prices of which show a further average advance of 20c.@25c. ℘ bbl., though in a few exceptional instances an improvement of 40c.@50c. ℘ bbl. has been realized, chiefly on inferior grades, the price of which is always more or less arbitrary, and on fancy brands, the limited supply of which enables holders to exact equally fancy rates for them. Toward the close, the market exhibited much firmness, but less animation. Sales since our last, 36,500 bbls., including common to choice Superfine State and Western at $7 25@$7 85; very poor to choice Extra State at $7 80@$9, chiefly at $7 85@$8 35; round-hoop Extra Ohio, poor to good shipping brands, at $8 85@$9 45 ℘ bbl. We now quote:

Superfine State and Western	$7 25	@$7 85
Extra State	7 80	@ 9 00
Extra Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, &c.	7 85	@13 00
Extra Ohio, round-hoop, ship'g brands	8 85	@ 9 45
Extra Ohio, trade and family brands	9 50	@13 50
Extra Genesee	9 00	@13 25
Poor to very choice extra Missouri	8 35	@17 00

Southern Flour continues active and advancing. Sales since our last, 2,850 bbls., in lots, at $9 75@$10 95 for poor to good, and $10@$16 50 for good to very choice extra brands, ℘ bbl. Canadian Flour is decidedly dearer. Sales, 1,100 bbls. Extra at $7 90@$13 ℘ bbl. Rye Flour rules quiet including Superfine, at $4 25@$5 25 ℘ bbl. Corn Meal is in active request at $3 60@$3 75 for Western, $3 70@$3 85 for Jersey, and $4 40@$4 50 for Brandywine, ℘ bbl. Sales 1,650 bbls.

GRAIN—Wheat has been in brisk demand, chiefly on speculative account, though, in a fair measure, for milling purposes, at a further advance of 5c.@8c. ℘ bushel. The speculation, favored by the extraordinary ease in the money market, is based on the reports of the very serious damages sustained by the growing Winter Wheat from frost, as also by the very great deficiency of sound Wheat, in the crops harvested last Autumn. Confidence is reposed in these reports to an unusual degree, indicating that there is less apprehension of exaggeration than customary. The heavy purchases at the advanced prices, making on Western account, as well in this market as in the interior, afford substantial evidence of this confidence. Sales since our last, add up 240,000 bushels, including White Canada at $2 55@$2 80; Amber Michigan at $1 85@$2 50, the latter rate for choice old; new No. 1 Milwaukee Club at $1 83@$1 88; old Milwaukee Club at $1 60@$1 85; Chicago Spring at $1 65@$1 82; and Amber State (a small lot) at $2 52, a fancy price, ℘ bushel. Toward the close the market was less buoyant, the demand having fallen off; but holders were very firm in their views, anticipating a further material rise, rather than any serious reaction. Corn has been in moderate request at an advance of one cent a bushel. Sales, since our last, 52,000 bushels at 81c.@84c. for unsound, and 85c.@88c. in store and delivered, for sound mixed Western—the latter rate for very choice, ℘ bushel. Oats are in active demand, and advancing, including State at 62c.@64c., Jersey and Pennsylvania at 55c.@57c., old Western at 59c.@61c., new Western at 43c.@51c., Canada at 59c.@61c. ℘ bushel. Rye has been in brisk demand and firmer; sales 31,000 bushels at 70c.@75c. for Western, and 89c.@90c. State ℘ bushel. Barley sold to the extent of 25,000 bushels Canada West at $1 20 ℘ bushel. Nothing new in Barley Malt. The following from the circular of Messrs. WOTHERSPOON & Co., for the Cuba, gives the

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

THE TURF.

The Training Stables of Racers in the North—Col. McDaniels' String at Seacaucus.

Within a circuit of thirty miles of New-York are located all the principal training quarters of racing thoroughbreds in the Northern States. As the turf campaign is soon to be inaugurated, a descriptive account of our reporter's visits to them, and of the horses in active training preparation for their Summer and Fall racing engagements may not prove uninteresting. The advent of April and fine weather has roused into full activity and industry business jockeys and all who are connected with a racing stable, and the scene presented to the visitor is a busy and interesting one. Our first sketch will be of a visit to Col. MCDANIELS' training quarters at Seacaucus, N. J., where the race course of the Hudson County Association is located, and of which that veteran turfman is now the lessee and proprietor.

Passing over the ferry to Hoboken, a beautiful drive of about five miles on the Paterson plank-road brings us to the entrance of the grounds of the association, and proceeding half a mile further we arrive at the race-course, with its surrounding colony of stables, and the adjacent hotel, an extensive but cosy-looking structure. Behind the long range of sheds erected for the temporary convenience of horses and vehicles of visitors, is a spacious apple-orchard, on three sides of which run long rows of stabling for the highbred stock in training. Walking leisurely around the orchard in a circle, we see a long string of sheeted racers, each with a young darkie rider in the saddle, between whom and the animal he bestrides there seems to exist a strong bond of affection and sympathy. Indeed, the attachment of the colored population of the South for racing thoroughbreds is proverbial. They are to be found in every training stable throughout the country, and when the present proprietor of the track brought on his horses from Virginia on his leaving the Broadrock Course, Richmond, he was accompanied by the whole of his colored household, men, women and children alike, who refused to accept freedom if it parted them from their master and the horses they had been accustomed to attend upon, and in whose turf success they felt the deepest interest. Overlooking them all, and from time to time giving directions to the sable jockeys, we observe a middle-sized, active-looking man, who watches carefully their every movement. This is GARRY BELL, the Colonel's assistant trainer and chief of staff, who is thoroughly conversant with the preparatory education of the equine pupils confided to his charge. After some half hour spent in gentle walking exercise, a movement in front shows us that some change in the programme is about to take place, and GARRY tells us that the horses are going on to the track to do more work in the form of a strong gallop. We proceed to the course, ascend the grand stand, and are there received with a hearty shake of the hand by the veteran Col. MCDANIELS himself, who welcomes us warmly. His grizzled hair shows that he is a little past the middle age, but time has made no impression on the elastic step and bright eye of the veteran turfman. From early youth he has been associated with racing, imbibing in consequence a deep, enthusiastic love for the exciting sport, and, passionately fond of that beautiful animal the horse, is profoundly learned in the lore of the turf, past and present. He kindly points out to us the horses as they pass, gives us their names, pedigrees and performances, and informs us what engagements they have for the coming season.

Leading the lot is Oakland, a handsome, well-furnished bay six-year old by Revenue, out of a Margrave mare, whose dam was the imported mare The Queen, by Priam. Oakland is a racing looking animal, galloping in fine, free style, and bringing to our recollection the splendid style in which—thanks to the fine riding of his jockey, the little Darkie ALBERT—he defeated the crack Thunder, on whom long odds were laid, by a head only just on the post, after a magnificent finish. He is entered for the Inauguration Stakes at Fordham, the great four-mile-heat race for which twenty-nine thoroughbreds, the best in America, have enrolled their names.

Following close at his heels comes Enchantress, a beautifully shaped racing-like chestnut one-year-old filly by Lexington, dam Ellen Bateman by Glencoe. With such a pedigree we expect something good, for the cross between the Boston blood and the Glencoe mares almost invariably "nicks in," as breeders term it, and we are not disappointed. Her shape is faultless, and her fine free action elicits the admiration of the spectator. She ran once last year as a two-year old at the Cincinnati Fall Meeting, when she was beaten by Mr. ALEXANDER's bay colt Merrill, by Lexington out of Miriam, in a mile dash. In this race Enchantress was second, beaten by a head, with three others behind her, and her defeat was attributed to the wretched manner in which she was ridden; the time was 1:57, and the track very heavy and muddy. She belongs to Mr. READ, of this City, and since she has been in Col. MCDANIELS' care she has so steadily improved that he thinks very highly of her chance of winning the American "Blue Ribbon of the Turf"—the Jersey Derby—at Paterson, next June, as well as the St. Leger, for which she is entered.

Following her comes the three-year-old Marshal Anderson, a bay colt by Lexington out of Ariel, the dam of the fleet Western three-year-old Delaware. This is a lengthy, leggy colt, upon whose respiratory organs the distemper has left its mark, but which he will probably outgrow. He belongs to the owner of Enchantress.

Close upon his heels comes a powerful dark chesnut horse, whose coat shines like satin, and which is Nightlock, a five-year old by Mahomet out of Prunella, the dam of those fleet sisters Lizzie W. and Sympathy. Nightlock won two races at the Hoboken Spring Meeting last year, beating old Throgsneck, Seacaucus, Lexicon and others; but falling away in the Fall, he was put to hurdle jumping, and ran third to Nannie Craddock at Paterson. This Spring he looks so blooming and fine that his owners, Messrs. EVANS and FRANCIS, of Hoboken, are going to give him another chance at flat racing, and then, if unsuccessful, he will be trained as a steeple-chaser, for which his size and action admirably fit him.

The strong gray horse that follows is Beauregard, six years old, by Albion, dam by imported Leviathan, and consequently own brother to Frank Cheatham. He has plenty of bone and power, and his owner, Mr. PAGE, of this City, intends him for hurdle racing.

Sweeping past the stand at a rattling gallop, with the clever colored rider ALBERT in the saddle, comes a bright bay colt, without a single white mark about him except a small star in the forehead. His splendid action when extended, gathering his feet well under him, his free and easy yet powerful stride immediately attract the attention. The Colonel answers our inquiring glance by informing us that the colt in question is Ripley, by Jeff. Davis, dam Nina, by Boston, a most unexceptionable pedigree, for Jeff. Davis was the sire of Albine, one of the fastest and stoutest mares that ever trod the American turf, and whose defeat of the renowned Planet in the great four-mile-heat race, Charleston, S. C., made such an impression on BONEY YOUNG, the trainer of the latter, that he went home and took to his bed from sheer annoyance and vexation, while Nina was the dam of Planet himself. Such a union could not fail to produce a good one, and Ripley, we feel assured, will do honor to his breeding. He is somewhat coarse about the hocks; but this can hardly be termed a defect. He gallops low and close to the ground, and as he rapidly gains upon and passes the horses in front of him, it is easy to see that he has the foot of them all, with perhaps the single exception of the golden chestnut filly with white hind heels, who holds her own gallantly. Ripley is not engaged in the Derby or St. Leger at Paterson, but the Colonel shows the high opinion he has of him by entering him for the Sequel Stakes and Cup at Saratoga, and the great four-mile heat race for the Inauguration Stakes at Fordham. Col. MCDANIELS owns him.

The lengthy and somewhat leggy mare that thunders up the homestretch, and passes the stand at a rattling gallop, is Lady Blessington, a five-year-old bay mare, by imported Eclipse, dam Flo by Mariner. She was lame all last year, but is perfectly sound now, and stands her preparation well; her light and lengthy frame and easy style of going betokening speed of no common order. She is engaged in the Saratoga Cup and Inauguration Stakes at Fordham. Like the four-year old chesnut filly that follows her, by Arlington, out of Oakland's dam, she belongs to Col. MCDANIELS. The chesnut colt, whose three white legs make him conspicuous as he gallops past us, is by Mohegan out of a Boston mare, and though small is handsome and a good mover, as is also the three-year old black filly alongside him, by Imp. Eclipse, out of the Greek Slave by Glencoe. The latter belongs to Messrs. EVANS and FRANCIS, and is engaged in the Paterson Derby and St. Leger. That brown filly with white feet behind coming up the stretch is a three-year old by Marengo out of a Margrave mare; she has a racing-like look, and moves nicely as she gallops past; she is in the Jerome stakes at Fordham.

Their afternoon gallop over, the horses return to their stables, are rubbed down, blanketed, and led out for gentle walking exercise around the orchard circle. In the meantime we take a look at the two-year olds, and two colts by Breckinridge attract our eye. The first is a strong well-developed bay colt out of a mare by Bonnie Scotland, and looks like training on into a fine, well-furnished colt. The other is out of a Monarch mare by Breckinridge, and is a bright bay, very good looking and promising in appearance. They are both engaged in the Paterson St. Leger of 1867, and the Nursery Stakes at Fordham this year. Mr. T. B. READ owns them.

Time and space prevent us from describing the fine lot of brood horses and yearlings which the Colonel owns, and which he showed us; among the latter is one by Planet, d m Ade giza, for which he recently refused $4,000. But we must mention a lot of recently arrived carriage and saddle horses from Kentucky, which for beauty, style and lofty carriage, we have rarely seen equaled. There are two matched teams of carriage horses, bright bays and fast steppers, that cannot be surpassed for graceful action, and some admirably broken saddle-horses for ladies, which would create a sensation in the Park. There are now in active training at the Colonel's stables, eighteen thoroughbreds, and more are daily expected. The Spring meeting on this course commences on the 19th June next, a week after the Paterson meeting.

QUOITING.

Opening Day at the Normal Grounds.

The season for quoit playing is now fairly open. For the last week or two the lovers of this invigorating sport have met in large numbers at the various rendezvous in New-York and Brooklyn, and quite a number of interesting practice games have already taken place. The prominence given to the game in this country in the last few years, has rendered it very popular, and it now stands in the front rank of our out-door pastimes. While it does not require so much exertion as either cricket or base-ball, it is fully as health-giving in its tendencies, and quite as exciting as either, especially where the players are first-class and the championship is at stake.

The principal playing court in New-York is DUNHAM's quoit-ground, corner of Broadway and Eighth-street. These grounds are under the charge of Mr. GEORGE DUNNING, the veteran quoiter, and in his time one of the finest players hereabouts. Here the New-York, Normal and St. Andrew's Clubs meet, and here congregate some of the most expert players in this vicinity.

Yesterday was announced as the opening day at these grounds, and, although the day was somewhat unpropitious, the gathering was very large and enthusiastic. Play was commenced about 2 o'clock, by a game between HARRY CLIFTON and JAMES FARRISH, which was won by the latter; score 31 to 26. The game was exceedingly well contested, and the fine play of the contestants was frequently seconded by applause. This was followed by a match between Messrs. MCGREGOR and PUTNAM and MCLAREN and "MCCANTLIE," which was won by the two first-named gentlemen, in a close game, by the score of 21 to 20.

Next Wednesday a grand match is announced to take place between Messrs. CLIFTON and ROBERTS, and as this is the first match of the season, quite a crowd may be expected to witness the day's play. A convention of the quoit clubs of New-York, New-Jersey and Pennsylvania will be held in this City some time in May, to draw up rules and regulations to govern matches for the championship, and to transact such other business as may be of interest to the game.

The new Steamship Pereire, of the General Trans-Atlantic Company's Line.

This fine vessel, which belongs to the General Trans-Atlantic Company, and is named after its President, M. ISAAC PEREIRE, arrived in this port a few days ago, on her first voyage from Havre. The Pereire was constructed by Messrs. NAPIER & SON, at their yard on the Clyde, the cost being 4,000,000 francs. She is justly considered one of the finest specimens of naval architecture afloat. Her length is 371 feet; beam 48 feet; depth of hold 33 feet. She is 3,500 tons burden—displacement 5,217 tons. Her engines are nominally 1,300 horse-power, but they can be worked up to double that figure. She has 32 furnaces, and is furnished with a propeller on GRIFFITH's principle, by which all vibration is avoided. The speed on her trial trip averaged 15¼ knots. Her saloons, smoking room, captain's cabin, cook room, &c., are all above deck, with a passage way on each side. Above them runs a fine promenade deck, almost from stem to stern. She has splendid accommodations for 426 cabin passengers—240 of the first class, 150 of the second and 36 of the third. No steerage passengers are taken.

The vessel is divided by bulkheads into water-tight compartments. By a simple but peculiarly arranged telegraphic apparatus, the commanding officer can communicate with the steersman, without the slightest danger of being misunderstood on the darkest or most tempestuous night. Another apparatus communicates with the engine room. Life-boats in ample number hang from the davits.

The General Trans-Atlantic Company now own twenty-six steamers, representing 16,600 horse power. By these vessels it maintains a monthly service to Havana, Mexico, the West Indies and Panama, and a bi-monthly service between New-York, Havre and Brest. The sister ship to the Pereire is the Napoleon III., a splendid vessel, somewhat larger than the Pereire, and built in London. These, with the Lafayette, St. Laurent, Europe and the Ville de Paris, form the line between this port and Havre.

Yesterday the Pereire, which lies at Pier No. 50 N. R., was thrown open for public inspection, and was visited by a large number of persons. Her saloons are paneled with maple wood inlaid with ebony, the ceilings being white and gold. The state-rooms and berths are fitted up in the most tasteful manner, and possess every accommodation that the most fastidious can desire. The whole interior of the vessel is heated by steam, and is well lighted and ventilated. When it is added that the Pereire is commanded by an able and courteous Captain, and that the culinary arrangements are presided over by an artiste of the first-class, it need scarcely be said that she is fully entitled to be called a floating palace.

On her voyage from Havre to this port she proved herself to be an excellent seaboat, and possessed of great speed. On Saturday next she returns to Havre under the command of Capt. DUCHESNE.

The Transatlantic Company intend in a short time to run a line of steamers between New-Orleans and the mouth of the Loire.

THE BOSTON SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

The Mayor of Boston, the Editor of the Commonwealth Newspaper, and Others, the Guests of our Board of Education.

On Tuesday morning the Hon. F. W. LINCOLN, Mayor of Boston; Alderman CHARLES W. SLACK, editor of the Boston Commonwealth; Mr. PHILBRICK, the Boston Superintendent of Public Instruction; Rev. Dr. S. K. LOTHROP, Rev. HENRY BURROUGHS, Dr. UPHAM, Dr. SHURTLEFF, Aldermen GAFFIELD and MAYO, Councilman RICHNER, and Messrs. CAVERLY, HAINES and THOS. M. BREWER, all of the School Board of Boston, arrived in this City as the guests of our Board of Education. These gentlemen were received by a Committee of our Board, composed of Messrs. RICHARD WARREN, JAMES W. FARR, JAMES L. MILLER and JAMES B. DUPIGNAC, and, accompanied by Messrs. SAMUEL B. H. VANCE, S. S. RANDALL and THOMAS BOESE, they were at once taken on the business which brought them hither.

The Committee first visited the Boys' Grammar School, No. 35, in Thirteenth-street, and were received by Mr. THOMAS HUNTER, the Principal. The exercises were commenced by the reading, by Commissioner WARREN, of the 15th chapter of St. John. Mr. HUNTER and his thousand bright-eyed pupils followed with the Lord's Prayer, and after the singing of a hymn by the boys, Mr. WARREN introduced the Mayor of Boston.

Mayor LINCOLN said that the gentlemen who accompanied him had come, not to make speeches, but to examine the schools of New-York. They were proud of the educational system of their own city; and as they had heard that the schools of the commercial metropolis had attained to a higher degree of proficiency than those of the capital of New-England, they had resolved to see these schools and learn how to improve their own. He complimented Mr. WARREN on the appearance of his school, which, he had been informed, is the largest in the country, and probably the largest in the world, and he counseled the pupils ever to be proud of their connection with a school of such high standing.

While Rev. Dr. LOTHROP was speaking his hearers were almost persuaded that it was the Rev. H. W. BELLOWS in disguise. He strove to impress upon the boys the importance of improving the Everlasting Now.

The Committee next visited Miss LYDIA F. WADLEIGH's Grammar School for Girls, in Twelfth-street, near Broadway. Mr. S. S. RANDALL described this school as being for the girls of New-York what the Free Academy is for the boys. There are 1,300 pupils taught in the building, and in the higher classes ten studies are pursued. After listening to music and the reading of compositions, Mr. PHILBRICK, Superintendent of Public Instruction in Boston, addressed the young ladies, saying that although he came from the soil on which free schools originated, he must yet confess that he had seen schools elsewhere which had won his admiration. He closed his remarks with a graceful allusion to a meritorious paper from the pen of Miss PUTNAM, which was read at the examination of this school a year ago.

Descending to the Primary Department, the visitors were treated to a lesson in object teaching by Mr. MOORE. The teachers employed in the Girls' Academy are:

Misses Lydia F. Wadleigh, Susan M. Van Amringe, Lavinia M. Holman, Mary Swift, Julia A. Willard, Frances L. Russell, Katherine J. Menninger, Anne Armitage, Martha B. Skillman, Sarah E. Woodward, Josephine H. Shelden, Elizabeth Jackson, Caroline B. Andrews, Juliet B. Clannon, Josephine Driggs, Louisa Wood, Mary E. Osborne, M. Louise Geer, Kate Requa, Frederica B. Moran, Lucy Porter, Mary A. Smith, Marie Guillaudeu, Sarah J. Jones, Louisa D. Brown, Hannah J. Logan, Harriet Valentine, Constance J. Glover, Messrs. Edward Miller and George F. Bristow, Miss Honorine Chaurand, and Messrs. Henry W. Ellsworth and George Weightman.

The visitors next went to Grammar School No. 3, in Hudson-street, and were courteously received by the venerable principal, Dr. DAVID PATTERSON, School Commissioner CHARLES J. CHIPP, and Mr. JAMES W. BOOTH. Here Commissioner FARR, being at home, introduced the Bostonians, and after the exercises by the boys, Mr. CHARLES W. SLACK, editor of the Boston Commonwealth, addressed them. He was glad to see the school-house wherein the present Speaker of the United States House of Representatives was taught, and where the late lamented Gen. VAN BUREN studied, and he would have every boy within hearing of his voice remember that he may yet win the high honors that have been bestowed upon these two illustrious graduates of Grammar School No. 3.

The Vice-Principal informed the gentlemen that a former pupil of this school had established a like institution at Portland, Oregon, and had christened it No. 3. The pupils then gave their visitors the peculiar "No. 3 cheer" of the school, and filed off to their respective recitation-rooms.

In the afternoon the Committee visited the Central Park, and in the evening they were the guests of Mr. RICHARD WARREN, at his mansion in Sixteenth-street.

Yesterday the Committee commenced work in Mr. N. P. BEERS' Grammar School, No. 289 Fifth-street, near Avenue D, known as No. 15. Commissioner JAMES L. MILLER here assumed the management, and took the visitors through the class-rooms, where the pupils were examined in their studies. Next the company went to Primary School No. 26, in East Twelfth-street, and were welcomed by Miss E. N. WICKS, the principal. Here, also, the class-rooms were visited, and the pupils were examined in their ordinary lessons. After making a like visit to Grammar School No. 40, in Twenty-third-street, under the principalship of Mr. DAVID B. SCOTT, and Grammar School No. 50, in Twentieth-street, under charge of Miss LETITIA MATTHEWS, the visitors turned their footsteps to the Free Academy, and were received by Vice-Principal JOHN JASON OWEN, acting head of the institution during the illness of Prof. WEBSTER.

The Bostonians, unable to tarry longer in New-York, took the 5 o'clock train last evening for Philadelphia and Baltimore. Having visited the schools of these cities, they will return on Saturday to the Old Bay State.

LAW REPORTS.

UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT.

The Right of the States to Tax National Bank Shares under the Acts of Congress Organizing those Banks—The Tax is Authorized, but there must be no Discrimination in Favor of the State Banks—The Capital Stock of a Corporation Defined—Opinion of the Court in the New-York Cases.

Adam Van Allen, &c., et al., plaintiffs in error, vs. Michael A. Nolan, et al., defendants in error; and two other cases.—The facts and points of law involved in these cases were stated in the TIMES at the time of the argument, and will be remembered. The Supreme Court and the Court of Appeals of this State had held that the Acts of Congress authorized the tax, and judgment was rendered accordingly. The cases were then brought to this Court, on error, and were elaborately argued by the most distinguished lawyers of the State.

By the Court, Mr. Justice Nelson delivering the opinion: This is a writ of error to the Court of Appeals of the State of New-York. The case presented is this: The plaintiffs in error are stockholders in the First National Bank in the City of Albany, and the defendants constitute a board of Assessors of Taxes in the same city. The whole of the capital stock of the bank consisted in stocks and bonds issued by the United States under various acts of Congress; and it was insisted before the Board that the shares of the bank held by the plaintiffs as stockholders, were not subject to assessment and taxation under State authority; which position was denied by the Board, and the assessment made and tax enforced. The case was carried to the Supreme Court of the State, and thence to the Court of Appeals, which Court affirmed the authority of the Board of Assessors to levy the tax.

The case is now before us under the 25th section of the Judiciary Act. The decree of the Court of Appeals must be reversed, on the ground that the Enabling Act of the State, passed March 9, 1865, (Sess. 1, h. 97,) does not conform to the limitations of the Act of Congress passed June 3, 1864, organizing the National Banks, and providing for their taxation, (sec. 41.) The defect is this: one of the limitations in the Act of Congress is "that the tax so imposed under the laws of any State upon the shares of the associations authorized by this act, shall not exceed the rate imposed upon the shares of any of the banks organized under the authority of the State where such association is located." The Enabling Act of the State contains no such limitation. The banks of the State are taxed upon their capital, and although the act provides that the tax on the shares of the National Banks shall not exceed the par value, yet, inasmuch as the capital of the State Banks may consist of the bonds of the United States, which are exempt from State taxation, it is easy to see that this tax on the capital is not an equivalent for a tax on the shares of the stockholders. This is an unimportant question, however, as the defect may be readily remedied by the State Legislature. The main and important question involved, and the one which has been argued at great length and eminent ability, is, whether the State possesses the power to authorize the taxation of the shares of these National Banks in the hands of stockholders, whose capital is wholly vested in the stock and bonds of the United States? The Court are of opinion that this power is possessed by the State, and that it is due to the several cases that have been so fully and satisfactorily argued before us at this term, as well as to the public interest involved, the question should be finally disposed of; and we should proceed, therefore, to state, as briefly as practicable, the grounds and reasons that have led to their judgment in the case.

The first act providing for the organization of these National Banks, passed 25th of February, 1863, contained no provision concerning State taxation of these shares, but Congress reserved the right by the last section at any time "to amend, alter or repeal the act." The present act of 1864 is a reënactment of the prior statute, with some material amendments, of which the section concerning State taxation is one.

In organizing these banks under this act, it is made the duty of the association to deliver to the Treasurer of the United States, registered bonds, bearing interest to an amount not less than $30,000, nor less than one-third of the capital stock paid in, which bonds shall be deposited with the Treasurer, and by him, safely kept, &c. This provision fixes the minimum limit of the amount of the bonds to be deposited with the Treasurer, but no maximum is fixed, and the whole amount of the capital may be invested in them. On the deposit of these bonds with the Treasurer, the association is entitled to receive from the Comptroller of the Currency circulating notes of different denominations, registered and countersigned, equal in amount to ninety per centum of the current market value of the bonds so deposited—(Sec. 21.) There is a limit to the amount of the circulating currency to be issued to these associations, not to exceed, in the aggregate, three hundred millions of dollars. This sum was to be apportioned among the several banks organized under the act—(Sec. 22.) These notes, after being signed by the President and Cashier, are authorized to be issued and to circulate as money, and are to be received at par in all parts of the United States, in payment of taxes, excises, public lands, and all other dues to the United States, except for duties on imports; also, for all salaries and other debts and demands owing by the United States, except interest on the public debt, and in redemption of the National currency—(Sec. 23.)

These associations also possess all the powers necessary for carrying on the business of banking, by discounting and negotiating promissory notes, drafts, bills of exchange, and other evidences of debt; by receiving deposits, buying and selling exchange, coin and bullion; by loaning money on personal security; by obtaining, issuing and circulating notes according to the provisions of this act, &c. The duration of the charter is twenty years.

They are also made depositaries of public moneys when designated by the Secretary of the Treasury, and may be employed as fiscal agents of the Government.

Now, these are very great powers and privileges conferred by the act upon these associations, and which are founded upon a new use and application of these Government bonds, especially the privilege of issuing notes to circulate in the community as money, to the amount of ninety per centum of the bonds deposited with the Treasurer, thereby nearly doubling their amount for all the operations and business purposes of the bank. This currency furnishes means and facilities for conducting the operations of the associations, which, if used wisely and skillfully, cannot but result in great advantages and profits to all the members of the association—the shareholders of the bank.

In the granting of chartered rights and privileges by Government, especially if of great value to the corporators, certain burdens are usually, if not generally, imposed as conditions of the grant. Accordingly we find them in this charter. They are very few, but distinctly stated.

They are, first, a duty of one-half of one per centum each half year, upon the average amount of its notes in circulation; second, a duty of one-quarter of one per centum each half year, upon the average amount of its deposits; third, a duty of one-quarter of one per centum each half year, on the average amount of its capital stock beyond the amount invested in United States bonds; and fourth, a State tax upon the shares of the association held by the stockholders, not greater than assessed on other moneyed capital in the State, nor to exceed the rate on shares of stock of State banks.

These are the only burdens annexed to the enjoyment of the great chartered rights and privileges that we find in this act of Congress; and no objection is made to either of them except the last—the limited State taxation.

Although it has been suggested, yet it can hardly be said to have been argued, that the provision in the act of Congress concerning the taxation of the shares by the State, is unconstitutional. The suggestion is, that it is a tax by the State upon the bonds of the Government which constitute the capital of the bank, and which this Court has heretofore decided to be illegal. But this suggestion is scarcely well founded, for were we to admit, for the sake of the argument, this to be a tax of the bonds or capital stock of the bank, it is but a tax upon the new uses and new privileges conferred by the charter of the association—it is but a condition annexed to the enjoyment of this new use and new application of the bonds; and if Congress possessed the power to grant these new rights and new privileges, which none of the learned counsel has denied, and which the whole argument assumes, then we do not see but the power to annex the conditions is equally clear and indisputable. The question involved is altogether a different one from that decided in the previous bank cases, and stands upon different considerations. The State tax under this act of Congress involves no question as to the pledged faith of the Government. The tax is the condition for the new rights and privileges conferred upon these associations.

But, in addition to this view, the tax on the shares is not a tax on the capital of the bank. The corporation is the legal owner of all the property of the bank, real and personal; and within the powers conferred upon it by the charter, and for the purposes for which it was created, can deal with the corporate property as absolutely as a private individual can deal with his own. This is familiar law, and will be found in every work that may be opened on the subject of corporations. A striking exemplification may be seen in the case of the Queen vs. Arnoud (9 Adolp. and Ellis, N. S. P., 806.) The question related to the registry of a ship owned by a corporation. Lord Denman observed: "It appears to me that the British corporation is, as such, the sole owner of the ship. The individual members of the corporation are no doubt interested in one sense in the property of the corporation, as they may derive individual benefits from its increase, or loss from its decrease; but in no legal sense are the individual members the owners."

The interest of the shareholder entitles him to participate in the net profits earned by the bank in the employment of its capital during the existence of its charter, in proportion to the number of his shares; and upon its dissolution or termination, to his proportion of the property that may remain of the corporation, after the payment of its debts. This is a distinct, independent interest or property, held by the shareholder like any other property that may belong to him. Now, it is this interest which the act of Congress has left subject to taxation by the States, under the limitations prescribed, as will be seen on referring to it.

That act provides as follows:

That nothing in this act shall be construed to prevent all the shares of any of the said associations, held by any person or body corporate, from being included in the valuation of personal property of such person or corporation, in the assessment of taxes imposed by and under State authority, at the place where such bank is located, and not elsewhere, but not at a greater rate than is assessed upon other moneyed capital in the hands of individual citizens of such State; provided, further, that the tax so imposed under the laws of any State, upon the shares of the associations authorized by this act, shall not exceed the rate imposed upon the shares of any of the banks organized under the authority of the State where such association is located; Provided also, that nothing in this act shall exempt the real estate of associations from either State, County or Municipal taxes to the same extent according to its value as other real estate is taxed." (Sec. 41.)

It is said that Congress possesses no power to confer upon a State authority to be exercised which has been exclusively delegated to that body by the Constitution; and, consequently, that it cannot confer upon a State the sovereign right of taxation; nor is a State competent to receive a grant of any such power from Congress. We agree to this.

But, as it respects a subject-matter over which Congress and the States may exercise a concurrent power, but from the exercise of which Congress, by reason of its paramount authority, may exclude the States, there is no doubt Congress may withhold the exercise of that authority, and leave the States free to act. An example of this relation existing between the Federal and State Governments is found in the Pilot Laws of the States, and the Health and Quarantine Laws.

The power of taxation under the Constitution, as a general rule, and as has been repeatedly recognized in adjudged cases in this Court, is a concurrent power. The qualifications of the rule are the exclusion of the States from the taxation of the means and instruments employed in the exercise of the functions of the Federal Government.

The remaining question is, has Congress legislated in respect to these associations, so as to leave the shares of the stockholders subject to State taxation?

We have already referred to the main provisions of the Act of Congress on this subject, and it will be seen it declares "that nothing in this act shall be construed to prevent all the shares in any of said associations, held by any person, or body corporate, from being included in the valuation of the personal property of such person or corporation in the assessment of taxes imposed by or under State authority, at the place where such bank is located;" and in another section of the act, (sec. 40,) it is declared "that the President and Cashier of every such association shall cause to be kept at all times a full and correct list of the names and residences of all the shareholders in the association, and the number of shares held by each, in the office where its business is transacted, and such list shall be subject to the inspection of all shareholders and creditors of the association, and the officers authorized to assess taxes under State authority, during business hours of each day," &c.

These two provisions—the one declaring that nothing in the act shall be construed to prevent the shares from being included in the valuation of the personal property, &c., in the assessment of taxes imposed by State authority, and the other providing for the keeping of the list of the names and residences of the shareholders, among other things, for the inspection of the officers authorized to assess the State taxes—not only recognize, in express terms, the sovereign right of the State to tax, but prescribes regulations and duties to these associations, with a view to disembarrass the officers of the State engaged in the exercise of this right. Nothing, it would seem, could be made plainer or more direct and comprehensive on the subject. The language of the several provisions is so explicit and positive as scarcely to call for judicial construction.

Then, as to the shares, what is intended by the use of the term? The language of the act is equally explicit and decisive.

The persons forming an association are required to make a certificate, which shall specify among other things the amount of its capital stock and the number of shares into which the same shall be divided, the names and places of residence of the shareholders, and the number of shares held by each. (Sec. 6.)

The capital stock shall be divided into shares of one hundred dollars each, and shall be deemed personal property. The shareholders of the association shall be held individually responsible, equally and ratably, and not one for another, for all contracts, debts and engagements of such association to the extent of the amount of their stock therein at the par value, in addition to the amount invested in such shares. (Sec. 12.)

In the election of directors, and in deciding all questions at meetings of shareholders, each shareholder shall be entitled to one vote on each share of stock held by him. (Sec. 11.) Fifty per centum of the capital stock of every association shall be paid in before it shall commence business, and the remainder in instalments of at least ten per centum per month till the whole amount is paid; and if any shareholder, or his assignee, shall fail to make the payment, of any instalment on his stock, the directors may sell the stock at public auction. (Secs. 14, 15.) No association shall make any loan or discount on the security of the shares of its own capital. (Sec. 35.)

We have already referred to the list of the names and residences of the shareholders, and the number of shares, to be kept for the inspection of the State assessors.

Now, in view of these several provisions in which the term shares and shareholders are mentioned, and the clear and obvious meaning of the term in the connection in which it is found, namely, the whole of the interest in the shares and of the shareholders; when the statute provides that nothing in this act shall be construed to prevent all the shares in any of the said associations, &c., from being included in the valuation of the personal property of any person or corporation in the assessment of taxes imposed by State authority, &c., can there be a doubt but that the term "shares," as used in this connection, means the same interest as when used in the other portions of the act. Take, for example, the use of the term in the certificate of the numbers of shares in the articles of association. In the division of the capital stock into shares of one hundred dollars each; in the personal liability clause, which subjects the shareholders to an amount, and, in addition, to the amount invested in such shares; in the election of directors, and in deciding all questions at meetings of the stockholders, each share is entitled to one vote; in regulations of the payments of the shares subscribed; and, finally, in the list of shares kept for the inspection of the State assessors. In all these instances it is manifest that the term as used means the entire interest of the shareholder; and it would be singular if, in the use of the term in the connection of State taxation, Congress intended a totally different meaning, without any indication of such intent.

This is an answer to the argument that the term, as used here, means only the interest of the shareholder as representing the portion of the capital, if any, not invested in the bonds of the Government, and that the State assessors must institute an inquiry into the investment of the capital of the bank, and ascertain what portion is invested in these bonds, and make a discrimination in the assessment of the shares. If Congress had intended any such discrimination, it would have been an easy matter to have said so. Certainly, so grave and important a change in the use of this term, if so intended, would not have been left to judicial construction.

Upon the whole, after the maturest consideration we have been able to give to this case, we are satisfied that the States possess the power to tax the whole of the interest of the shareholder in the shares held by him in these associations, within the limit prescribed by the act authorizing their organization. But, for the reasons stated in the forepart of the opinion, the judgment must be reversed and the case remitted to the Court of Appeals for the State of New-York, with directions to enter judgment of the plaintiffs in error with costs.

G. Clarence Churchill et al., plaintiffs in error, vs. City of Utica.—Churchill is the only party against whom judgment was rendered in the Court below, and the party who has brought a writ of error to this Court. The judgment is reversed and the case remitted to the Court below for proceedings there as directed in the case of Van Allen and others vs. Nolan and others. We refer the opinion in that case as governing this one.

Chauncey P. Williams, in behalf of himself and others, stockholders in the Albany National Exchange Bank, vs. Michael A. Nolan, et al., as the Board of Assessors.—The opinion in the case of Van Allen and others vs. Nolan and others governs this case, and the same judgment must be entered, judgment reversed and case remitted.

ADVERTISING OF THE CITY PRESS.

The Times the Great Organ of the Business Public.

Annexed is the aggregate amount of advertising returned to the Revenue Department, (according to the Herald's figures,) for the thirteen months ending Dec. 31, 1864, and for the year ending Dec. 31, 1865, by THE TIMES and the Herald respectively:

Paper.	1864. No. of Lines.	1865. No. of Lines.	Total. No. of Lines.
TIMES	1,645,413	1,896,080	3,541,493
Herald	1,443,837	1,655,480	3,099,317
TIMES excess.	201,576	240,600	442,176

This shows THE TIMES to be, by its extensive and comprehensive circulation among business people, its larger sheet and clearer print, the chief organ of the advertisers of the Metropolis, and the medium of communicating their wants to the public.

NOTE.—The number of lines in the Herald columns averages about 260, counting short and long advertisements. It seems, then, that THE TIMES published, in 1865, nine hundred and thirty-six columns more advertisements than did the Herald. That fact conclusively decides which paper is the chosen Business Organ of the People.

SECOND NOTE.—The following "note" appears in the Herald of the 12th inst.:

> "The TIMES, in order to make a show of business, publishes a statement pretending that it is from the official returns to the Revenue Department. This statement is made up in the TIMES office to suit its own purposes. No returns of the kind have ever been made to that Department. Our table, given above, is taken from the official books, and is strictly correct in every particular."

All the "pretending" we have made has been to take the Herald's own returns. If they are not accurate, the fault is certainly not ours. We simply showed by exact deduction from their own figures how much advertising each paper printed, and were very careful to be within the limit. The fact that the TIMES last year printed nearly one thousand columns more advertisements than did the Herald cannot be denied, that is if the Herald's revenue figures are correct. We point to actual advertising, as measured up from our files; our neighbor infers so much advertising from certain returns that might as well represent anything else.

To Advertisers.

Advertisers in the TIMES are requested to bring in their notices at as early an hour in the day as possible. If received after 8½ o'clock, it will be impossible to classify them under their proper heads.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

CONGRESS.

In the Senate yesterday Mr. GRIMES reported the bill passed by the House to provide for the better organization of the Pay Department of the Navy. The resolution appropriating $127,785 for fulfilling certain treaties with Indian tribes was passed. The resolution of thanks to Gen. HANCOCK was also passed. The House resolution appointing managers for the National Soldiers' Asylum was passed. The Habeas Corpus Bill of the House was then taken up. Pending its consideration, the Senate adjourned.

In the House the bill appropriating $6,483 96 for the services of Mr. CLARK as acting Charge d'Affaires at Brussels, from June, 1857, to September, 1858, was passed. The House then proceeded to the consideration of the bill to increase the salary of the Commissioner of Pensions to $4,000 and that of the chief clerk of the Pension Office to $2,500 per annum. The pending question being on the amendment offered by Mr. PERHAM, to strike out the second section of the bill increasing the salaries of the chief examiners, the amendment was agreed to. After some debate the bill was rejected—yeas 58; nays 63. A motion to reconsider was carried by a vote of 68 to 55. The bill went over until to-day. The House resumed the consideration of the Army Bill.

In the Assembly, the following are some of the bills passed: The State Tax Bill; the New-York County tax levy; to amend the Charter of the City of New-York; relative to the election of Comptroller, which was lost; Mr. VEEDER moved to reconsider and lay the bill upon the table, which was carried; to amend the act relative to the Onondaga Salt Springs; to provide for the erection of an armory in Schenectady; to increase the capital Stock of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company; to widen Fifth-avenue and provide an entrance to Central Park between Fifty-eighth and Fifty-ninth streets; the New-York City tax levy. At the evening session the bill to extend the track of the New-York Central and Erie Railroads in Buffalo was passed; also the bill to prevent the spread of the cattle plague; also the bill to amend the game laws.

GENERAL NEWS.

The steamship Virginia, from Liverpool the 4th inst., arrived at this port yesterday evening. Thirty-eight deaths occurred on board during her passage. The disease is reported to be the same as that with which the England is infected. The Virginia is anchored at the lower Quarantine, about 20 miles from the City.

The steamer City of Norwich, of the New-London and New-York line, collided with the schooner Gen. S. Van Vliet, off Huntington, at 3:30 o'clock yesterday morning. The schooner struck the steamer amidships, cutting her through. The water rising in her lifted her fires, so that they communicated with the woodwork and entirely destroyed her. The steamer had about fifty persons on board, about forty of whom were saved by boats from the steamer Electra, from Providence, and brought to this City. The remainder are supposed to be lost. The schooner was abandoned in a sinking condition, and her Captain and crew taken on board the Electra. The Electra lay by the scene of the disaster nearly two hours, and until all was done that could be done to save the lives of those on board.

The corner-stone of the monument to be erected over the grave of STEPHEN A. DOUGLAS will be laid some time during the month of May or June; and the Trustees having the matter in charge have invited WILLIAM H. SEWARD, Secretary of State, to be the orator of the occasion. In reply, Secretary SEWARD writes: "I may inform you that I should consider it an agreeable duty to accept this invitation, which does not exaggerate the regard in which I hold the memory of STEPHEN A. DOUGLAS. The last of his days in Washington were employed in consultation with President LINCOLN and myself in organizing the resistance to disunion."

It is proposed by the HOYTS, of Stamford, Conn., that a social gathering of the tribe, from all quarters of the globe, shall be held at that place on the 20th and 21st of June next. "Hoity toity," what a time there will be.

LOCAL NEWS.

There appears to be no hope of an arrangement being made between the car-drivers, now on a strike, and their late employers, which will satisfy both parties. Both are alike determined to stand firmly to the propositions already made by them, neither conceding anything to the other. New drivers were yesterday running about one-half the number of cars usually required to carry the passengers who patronize the street railroads. Policemen were required upon each car to protect the new employes from violence at the hands of those whose situations they are filling. A meeting of drivers was held at the City Hall in the afternoon. A few of the lines were running cars last night for the first time since the strike commenced.

At Police trials, yesterday, before Commissioners ACTON and BERGEN, the ommission of the City Railway Companies to run their cars made itself felt in the absence of officers who had been detailed to travel on the cars. Even Inspector LEONARD'S Police Academy felt the strike, the preceptor having been called off to manage police affairs up town. His place was filled by Drill Officer WILLIAM H. SIMMONS. Justice JOSEPH DOWLING appeared before the Commissioners, to purge his Court of any suspicion which might have attached to a case wherein a felony is alleged to have been compounded, and it was shown that through the magistrate's exertions the prisoner in the case was sent to Sing Sing to serve two years and six months in State Prison.

Mr. Justice JONES, who during the present month is holding the trial term of the Superior Court, Part II, has been compelled every day since the first Monday to fine delinquent jurors $25 for each day's non-attendance. Many of those summoned have undoubtedly acted on the supposition that one $25 was all they would have to pay for the term, but this branch of the Court has announced its intention of enforcing the law as it is, and every absent juror will be expected to pay $25 for each day's non-attendance. All the Courts see the necessity of inflicting the penalties fixed by the statute, in order to secure the attendance of competent jurors at this busy season of the year.

The Committee appointed at the commencement of the present General Term of the Supreme Court to examine applicants for admission to the Bar, made their report yesterday. There were between eighty and ninety in the class. Of this number the Committee report the names of sixty-nine as having passed the examination satisfactorily. The successful candidates are requested to present themselves in the General Term Room, Supreme Court, on Friday, the 20th inst., at 10 o'clock A. M. precisely, for the purpose of signing the roll and receiving their diplomas.

At the second April meeting of the Board of Education, last evening, President MCLEAN resumed his chair. The Board declined to purchase a site for a new school in One Hundred and Fifteenth-street; resolved to close Colored School No. 5, in the Fifth Ward, on the 25th inst.; and apportioned the school moneys for the current year. The Free Academy is hereafter to be known as the College of the City of New-York.

A large meeting of the members of the Judiciary and Bar was held yesterday in the United States Court-room, for the purpose of testifying the respect and esteem by them entertained for the late DANIEL S. Yesterday the corner-stone of a Jewish synagogue, to be called Adas Jeshuran, was laid at the corner of Thirty-ninth-street and Seventh-avenue. The Testimony of the Vanquished.

The same philosophical characteristics that distinguished the speeches of Mr. STEPHENS, of Georgia, appear in his testimony, recently given before the Committee on Reconstruction. It differs very strikingly in several respects, and in none more than in its vein of philosophy, from the testimony of Gen. LEE. LEE declined to indulge in speculative fancies; refused to go below the surface, or to set forth anything that was not quite palpable upon the face of it. He could hardly be drawn into the answering of questions involving political views, and was cautious to the last degree as to the force and bearing of every word he uttered. STEPHENS was more open and free, more explicit and exact, as well as more rhetorical, less dubious and less fearful; and was not backward in exhibiting what of course he possesses—a far more thorough knowledge of political influences and laws, and a far more extensive apprehension of the springs of human action and the forces that govern the popular will.

The two names just mentioned are those of the two foremost men in the Southern States. The testimony of no other party or parties could be of equal importance or historical value, unless it were that of JEFFERSON DAVIS. His testimony, moreover, would have more historical interest than practical value. He is capable of telling the world some things about the inside working and actual conduct of the rebellion which we should probably learn from no other source; but as he has been kept in close confinement ever since the fall of the Confederacy, he knows little of the great moral changes which have come over the Southern people since that time. Moreover, it is probable that DAVIS is now, among Southerners, quite exceptional in his feelings and views. As the actual figure-head of the great Southern Confederacy, and its representative man before the world, it is probable—and in truth we understand it to be a fact—that he still regards himself as the guardian of its ruins, and the sentimental defender of its wrecked fortunes—its putative parent and its inconsolable mourner; he will neither restrain his bitterness against its destroyers nor acquiesce in the decrees whose supremacy is inevitable. This may all be quite as pitiful as it is puerile; but it is what might have been expected of DAVIS, and what would render any evidence that might be extracted from him more entertaining than anything else.

We are by no means committing ourselves to the political philosophy of STEPHENS, as set forth in his testimony, when we say that in many particulars its possesses the characteristics that are ordinarily designated statesmanlike. STEPHENS displays a faith more or less firm in principle, and a profound regard for that which is expedient. Mistaken frequently in the apprehension of truth—as in his celebrated "corner-stone" blunder—he yet exhibits a perpetual tendency to base himself on broad and established doctrines; but, when the application of any one of those doctrines to the circumstances of practical life is palpably impossible, he would either ignore it altogether, or, for the time being, subordinate it. He declares himself, for example, to have been a Union man at the epoch of Secession; but finding Secession inevitable and the Confederacy an accomplished fact, he became a leader of the new Confederacy, in order that he might do all in his power to rescue and perpetuate the principles established in the old Constitution and the political forms established in the original Union. So now, again, he is still a believer in the "separate sovereignty of the several States," though it will be observed he does not now reiterate as strongly as he proclaimed in the South two or three years ago, the "ultimate, absolute sovereignty" of each State; but while, as he alleges, his "convictions on the original abstract question have undergone no change," he accepts the issue of the war as settling it finally against his views. We say that, as things go, views of this style are considered philosophical enough, and though they neither indicate the clearest initial convictions, the highest order of principle, the spirit that actuates martyrs, nor the man who is fit to rule in great crises, they pass current as meritorious in ordinary times, and furnish a rule of conduct not altogether inapplicable in the common work of government.

Mr. STEPHENS sets forth views analogous in principle to his own, as having controlled the action of the Southern people in the past, and as still controling it. Circumstances, such as the Secession of South Carolina, compelled the citizens of Georgia to act against their own convictions, and though Unionists in principle, they fell into, indorsed and fought for the destructive policy of disunion. They had always believed, however, that the State had the right of Secession, and though Mr. STEPHENS is cautious on this subject, remarking that "some may have changed their opinion in this respect, but it would be an unusual thing, as well as a difficult matter, for a whole people to change their convictions upon abstract principles," yet he reiterates with great force that the entire State, like himself, has accepted the result of the war on this question, or on these questions, as final, and will in no case bring them again into dispute in the arena of war. They tried war, he says, for the maintenance of their rights, but having found that it destroyed them all, they will now and henceforth seek their maintenance only by ways of peace.

It is not in the novelty of Mr. STEPHENS' statements that their interest and value lie; but as furnishing the ablest analysis of the grounds of Southern political action, and as personal narration of the processes of his own intellect, during two great historical crises, they are of enduring interest.

The Occupation and Sale of Mineral Lands.

The necessity for legislation in reference to the mineral lands of the country has long been felt by all concerned in their occupation and development. In the absence of a national law upon the subject, Territories and States have made provision for the protection of private rights and interests, though this provision has usually gone little further than the empowering of the miners themselves to make regulations binding upon their particular districts. These, however, have been subject to arbitrary changes, to meet the varying and special demands of some locality, the result being a want of fixity, of harmony, and often of equity, most detrimental to the interests involved in ownership and working. Capitalists have hesitated to invest in enterprises the bases of which were subject to the capricious action of remote and irregular bodies; hazard and uncertainty have attended titles, and meritorious discoverers have more than once been stripped of rights purchased at the expense of toil and danger.

In addition to all this, the National Government has suffered grievously. Its vast interests, as trustee for the nation, have been frittered away. The hidden wealth which belonged to the nation as a whole, has been appropriated by individuals and corporations, frequently without any consideration whatever, and always without the payment of any consideration proportionate to the value. Thus, priceless treasure has hitherto been almost lost. Resources, in comparison with which the debt created by the war is but a bagatelle, have been taken and squandered with impunity.

Three objects, then, have challenged the attention of the stateman; one, to encourage the development of our gold and silver lands; the next, to secure to the settler his rights, and to protect ownership acquired under existing laws, State and Territorial, so far as these are founded in equity; the third, to make the development of wealth belonging to the nation a source of national revenue.

A measure laid before the House some weeks ago by Mr. JULIAN, not only failed to fulfill these purposes, but afforded facilities for speculative operations of the kind in vogue among the sharks and sharpers who abound in the Territories.

Within the last few days a bill has been brought into the Senate by Mr. SHERMAN, reflecting, it is understood, the views of the Government, and exhibiting in its provisions a thorough understanding of the points that call for attention. It recognizes the rights of the actual settler on mineral lands as on other parts of the public domain, subject to local customs or rules, where these do not conflict with the laws or regulations of the United States. It provides that the occupant of gold and silver lands, which have been held and improved according to local regulation, may obtain a patent for the same at the rate of $5 per acre, upon the condition that an annual tax shall be paid into the United States Treasury amounting to five per cent. of the net product of the mine or lode embraced within the patent. The fourth section enacts that under the authority of the Secretary of the Interior the rectangular mode of survey and subdivision may be departed from to "promote the public interest." Another section affirms the right of preemption to lands held for agricultural purposes, in districts hitherto excluded from survey as mineral lands, but upon which valuable mines have not been discovered. The measure may therefore be described, in brief, as securing priority to the actual settler, as recognizing his transfers of mining property, and as avoiding interference with the miner's lands. Upon these, the material points, it appears to meet acknowledged requirements, while the tax to be levied upon the net products of every mine or vein of gold and silver will, at no remote period, form a valuable addition to the nation's income.

The fourth section strikes us, however, as objectionable, because affording facilities for fraud, of which speculators will not be slow to avail themselves. Practically, it may be as mischievous as the worst features of Mr. JULIAN'S bill. Any departure from the established mode of survey and subdivision should be deprecated as unnessary, except when special interests are to be served, and these are exactly the interests which have no claim to extraordinary consideration. The greatest hardship that can follow strict adherence to the established system, will be the enforced purchase of a few more acres than are needed for a particular mine. But this would be as nothing compared to the inconvenience and loss which must follow special surveys and arbitrary designations, made at the instance of parties indifferent to all but their immediate profit. To sanction this provision of the bill, would be to open the door wide to knavish combinations of surveyors and mining speculators, of the fairness or accuracy of whose representations the head of the Department at Washington cannot possibly judge.

FLYING FROM THE CHOLERA.—It is said that numerous persons of weak nerves are contemplating a flight from the City, in hope of being spared the chance of attacks of cholera. Such persons may as well be assured that their intentions are founded entirely in error. There is no calculating the exact spots which will be reached by the disease, nor its violence as respects locality. The very fact, moreover, of attempting to obtain security in comparative solitude will inevitably deepen the fears of those who make such attempts, and thus place them in a mental condition of all others the most likely to invite the very evil dreaded. Last year there were in England two or three trifling outbreaks of cholera—one was at Southampton, and another at Liverpool, but the third was on the farm of a man whose habits of cleanliness and order, as also those of his family and servants, were exemplary, and whose premises were well known to be situated in a healthy region and with healthy surroundings. The mortality in this last case was more rapid and extensive than in either of the two others. There is seldom much reason in the actions of terrified people. To run away from New-York for fear of cholera has in it no reasonableness at all.

THE RAILWAY COMPANIES AND THEIR GUARDIANS.—We are not accustomed to find fault with the Police administration. As a rule, it is exceedingly efficient, and, as a rule, fault-finding would be altogether unjustifiable. But the public do complain that so many of the Police force should be taken from their duties proper to enable the Railroad Companies to break in a new set of drivers, and to help the green hands to get used to the reins and the brakes. Practically, it amounts to this. There have been no riotous proceedings to justify this special assignment of the Police to duty outside of their proper sphere. The public, moreover, remember that no such eagerness was manifested in protecting the passengers by the City roads, when, a few months ago, almost every car at night was swarming with pickpockets. The Companies then declined to meet the appeal for Police protection. They are eager for help now, when their own pockets are concerned. These are matters which may be well and strongly recommended to the attention of the Police Commissioners and to the various Boards of railway direction.

AN EXTRAORDINARY TRIAL.—The English papers give quite a long report of the trial before one of the Assize Courts of a child ten years old, named EMILY BALLARD, on a charge preferred by Rev. G. R. GRAY, of stealing a penny from a schoolmate named SARAH JANE GOUGH. It would seem that a clergyman might be devoting his time and labor a little more profitably than in arraigning a girl of tender years before a Court of dignified magistrates on so paltry and petty a charge as this. If he would give a little attention to her education, or look a little into the circumstances under which she had been trained, or try to remedy the poverty which had led her to commit the act, he would have been performing the duties of his sacred office quite as thoroughly and profitably as in the course which he chose to pursue. It is some satisfaction to know that the worshipful magistrates of the British Realm, after due consideration and profound study of the case, decided that in their judgment the child had no felonious intent.

BRITISH-AMERICAN CONFEDERATION.—A telegram from Halifax announces that both Houses of the Nova Scotian Parliament have passed resolutions in favor of a Confederation of the Provinces. This insures the carrying out of the scheme. In a few weeks the question will go before the Imperial Parliament. Delegates from the different Colonies will be heard in Committee, and the act of Union will be ratified before the close of the present year. This much appears at the moment to be morally certain. How far the scheme will please those who are thus to be brought into political union we cannot venture even to conjecture. All we know is that if it satisfy the Provincial people, it ought to satisfy us. It will at least bring them nearer the day of complete release from a state of colonial dependence on the Parent State; and this is all that England cares for in pressing confederetion upon them with such steady purpose.

THE FIRE INSURANCE COMPANIES AND THE FIRE DEPARTMENT.—The advance in fire insurance yesterday, resolved upon by the Board of Underwriters, is, we regret to say, not only a new tax upon every property-owner on the Island, but is also practically a vote of non-confidence in the present organization of the Fire Department. It is utterly deplorable that it should have come to this pass in the first year of the new system. There must be reform, and reform which shall be speedy and complete. We cannot go back to the old state of things; but we can and must see that the present system is not ruined by inefficient administrators.

MILK AND WATER.—It is amusing, in view of the indignant denials with which our last year's statements that milkmen watered their milk were met by dealers, to notice that the Police report the names of about forty worthies who "usually" attenuate their lacteal merchandise at the hydrant between Forty-eighth-street and Lexington-avenue. There appears to be a sort of sliding scale of conscience by which the watering is guided, some putting four and others eight quarts of aqua pura to forty of milk, which is also funny. While mentioning this little development of trade morality, may not a question be asked which is on the tongues of many folks we hear of—When is the price coming down again?

FOR THE BOARD OF HEALTH.—We venture to call the attention of the Health Commissionere to certain pools of stagnant water in the upper wards of the City. Several exceedingly noxious pools may be seen by the Inspectors close to Eightieth, Eighty-first and Eighty-second streets, and Fourth-avenue. At and around Forty-third-street and Second-avenue there are similar causes of complaint, besides a variety of unendurable stinks.

The Galaxy.

This new fortnightly magazine has made its appearance. Externally and internally it possesses some novel features which will attract attention and secure it a wide popularity. The cover is chocolate colored, with the design and lettering in gold. The letter press is remarkably clean and pleasant to the eye, and the pages are broad instead of in columns, as is the fashion with the popular magazines now-a-days. The illustrations, of which we have two, are printed upon tinted paper, after the fashion of London Society and other English magazines. The frontispiece by DARLEY is an exquisite design, and introduces the Galaxy to the reader most pleasantly, but we doubt whether the style of illustration given in the engraving accompanying the "Claverings" will ever be popular here. As for the contents, we have two serials, one by ANTHONY TROLLOPE, (the "Claverings,") now appearing in the Cornhill Magazine, and another by Mrs. EDWARDS. Among the American writers are GEORGE ALFRED TOWNSEND, who gives us some of his lecturing experiences, and J. K. MEDBURY, who contributes a pleasant little story. On the whole the Galaxy promises to be a most acceptable addition to our periodical literature.

AMUSEMENTS.

GERMAN OPERA.—Mr. GROVER is certainly not fortunate in finding himself sandwiched between two Italian opera companies—Mr. MARETZEK'S the gone, and Mr. GRAU'S the coming. But it is perhaps an indication of his pluck that he is willing to occupy so tight a position. Better times, mayhap, are in store for him. At all events he does the best with his opportunity. The programme announced for the eight nights of his season is generous to the last degree, and should interest the public. Tuesday evening the initial performance was given to an audience which was not crowded, but at least equal to what we have lately seen at the Academy. The opera was "Faust." Of this favorite work we have written so frequently, both in its Italian and German garb that there is nothing left for us to say. Nor indeed would it be profitable to speak at length of a work which, in all probability, will not be repeated. Assuredly we should hesitate to urge its repetition. The present cast does not differ materially from that which the same management has heretofore bestowed on it, but the difference, however slight, does not add to the interest of the revival. Mme. ROTTER is an intelligent and energetic singer, but Marguerite is hardly the rôle in which she is seen or heard to advantage. Her bravura singing is marred by more defects than her tact can cover. Among these drawbacks a huskiness of breathing was very noticeable. Mlle. DZIUBA was the Siebel. The flower song has been heard to better advantage. It was forced out of its correct limits by an indiscreet attempt to fill the house with a voice which, although sweet and pleasant, is not over powerful. Of the other artists, it will suffice to say that Mr. HIMMER acted the part of Faust very creditably, and sang the music with the good judgment and taste which he always exhibits, and with that peculiarly closed and unpleasant method which he uses and no one admires. The falsetto notes were quavered out in the usual surprising manner, and with great self-possession so far as the singer was concerned. The audience did not preserve its equanimity with equal success. The Valentine of Herr STEINECKE has not altered in catarrhal severity of intonation. The scene in which he meets with his untimely end was acceptable to the audience in many ways. The fanfare and the pageant were creditable—a portion of the Seventh Regiment Band taking part in both. Mr. HERMANN'S Mephistopheles was somewhat rougher than usual, but it still ranks as one of the best impersonations of the part we have had. The gentleman seemed to be fatigued. Indeed, the whole performance was characterized by a sense of extreme effort, and the effects we have noticed may disappear with repose, but this is hardly to be expected with a new grand opera every night. The orchestra is good in numbers, but was coarse and scrapilly loud in tone. The chorus enjoyed the advantage and shared the defects of the orchestra.

Last evening Mr. GROVER produced ROSSINI'S greatest work, "William Tell." The house, we are glad to say, was crowded to its greatest capacity, and crowded, too, as we would like to see it on all occasions, by the masses. The performance opened auspiciously with the overture, which was hailed vigorously, and redemanded. The conductor bowed his thanks, and played the allegro. The success was due more to force of tempo and power of percussion than to delicate perception of contrast. This remark, in a limited degree, applies to the whole orchestral performance—which, to our thinking, was coarse. Our objections will, we are happy to say, end here. Mr. GROVER—with no wealth of Italian voice at his command—is entitled to the credit of having played a difficult and embarassing opera much better than it has been played before. The chorus was well drilled—we speak of it first because it plays so important a part in this work—and unusually large. The members of it sang vigorously and well. We doubt if the meeting of the Cantons has ever been so largely presented, or the different characters so closely defined. If for nothing else, the opera should succeed for this—as it did—and be repeated. But there is much more to praise. Mr. HIMMER'S Arnold was a fine artistic performance—so artistic that the defects to which we have elsewhere referred were forgotten in the surprise and pleasure of a clear, manly and truly dramatic performance. Even in the duo of the second act, where the scantiness of his voice compelled him to resort to the falsetto, he was steady, unmusicianlike, and pleasing. Mr. WILLIAM FORMES made his first appearance on the occasion in the title-role. He has a free baritone voice; not sufficient lydeep for serious declamation, but free and agreeable to the ear, and thoroughly within his control. The opening impression was not favorable, owing to a perceptible trepidation; but in every subsequent effort he improved. The superb trio of the conspiration scene owed much of its success to his excellent singing. This piece, indeed, could hardly have been given better. Messrs. HIMMER, FORMES and STEINECKE were alike good. Mr. HABELMAN, in his single solo of the first act, rendered full justice to it. He has a beautiful voice, and knows how to use it to the best advantage. The remaining parts are small but important. We do not desire to disturb a plain impression of pleasure by speaking of them. It will suffice that they were interpreted creditably. If the opera be repeated we suggest to our readers that they witness it. In completeness of ensemble, and in many points of detail it is a credit alike to Mr. GROVER'S company and to Mr. GROVER'S management.

To-night BOILDIEU'S opera of "La Dame Blanche" will be played for the only time.

WALLACK'S THEATRE.—The performances at this justly famous establishment possess the agreeable pecutiarity of always being varied and excellent. No success has yet convinced the management of the propriety of "running things into the ground." Pieces which have attained popularity have been withdrawn simply that they might not be in the way of the regular patrons of the theatre. That these patrons are satisfied, is clearly proved by their constant attendance. Good management has played, and still continues to play, a conspicuous part in the success of Wallack's Theatre. Many things have contributed to make it the first theatrical establishment in America. Among these may be mentioned the prestige of Mr. WALLACK'S name, the exact knowledge which he possessed of the value of other artists, the taste which he displayed in all matters of stage effect, the suavity and kindliness which as a gentleman he could not help showing, and lastly—only because he chose to think of himself last—because he was the best actor of his school in the country. We enumerate these traits now, because they are all reflected in his son, Mr. LESTER WALLACK—who, like his father, is, at the end of the season, playing "a brilliant engagement." The last expression is, of course, incorrect in its general acceptation. It is obvious that Mr. LESTER WALLACK need not engage himself to act at his own theatre, and happily that establishment does not encourage "stars" in any form. It was only because Mr. WALLACK had been in bad health that he withdrew from the stage, and it is now in consequence of better strength that he returns to it. We heartily rejoice that he is able to do so, and trust that his performances may not be cut short by any untoward return of the old trouble. We cannot afford to lose an actor like Mr. LESTER WALLACK even temporarily. The characteristics of his style are so agreeable, his presence on the stage so quiet, and his accomplishments as a comedian so varied, that there is literally no one who can even decently fill his place.

It is not always convenient to follow the rapid changes that now occur in the bills; nor, indeed, is it necessary. The plays belong to the class called "standard," and are given at regular intervals, with the entire acceptance of the public. During the past few days Mr. WALLACK has appeared in the "Wonder," in "How She Loves Him," and in "Don Cæsar de Bazan"—the piece last named having been brought out on Tuesday evening. In the other two Mr. WALLACK is well remembered, and it will be enough to say that his acting is as spirited and well-toned as before. The genial undercurrent of fun which bubbles to the polished surface so often in his impersonations displays itself most agreeably in the part of Vacil, the stuttering hero of BOUCICAULT'S amusing comedy. Were our advice necessary we should urge our readers to see "How She Loves Him" the next time it is announced on the bills. The cast is unusually satisfactory, and exhibits not merely Mr. LESTER WALLACK, but many other members of the company to the best advantage. The Atlanta Cruiser of Miss MARY GANNON, the Mrs. Vacil of Miss MADELINE HENRIQUES, and the Lady Raffleticket of Miss FANNY MORANT are strongly marked impersonations of well sketched characters. Three such actresses, indeed, are sufficient to make the reputation of any piece.

"Don Cæsar de Bazan" was a favorite drama with the late Mr. WALLACK, and was relinquished by him unwillingly, even when time with its increasing infirmities had quelled much of the gallant spirit with which he was wont to inspire the rôle of the hero. Mr. LESTER WALLACK has also won distinction in the same character, although he has not approached the part of Don Cæsar for sixteen years. There is, now, no one on the American stage who can be compared with him in it. In pleasant liveliness, in earnest daring, in quick but courteous perception of thought and action, it is a masterpiece of acting. We do not usually exhaust ourselves in a sentence, but in this instance there is nothing more to be said. We express simply the enthusiasm of Tuesday night, and share it. The cast in every way was good. Miss MADELINE HENRIQUES was a graceful and beautiful Maritana. The part is an embarassing one, inasmuch as all the interest centres on the hero, but the thread which connects his gallantry with the story could not have been held more delicately yet firmly. Mr. CHAS. FISHER was the best King of Spain we have ever seen. Royalty is respectable in his hands. Mr. GILBERT and Mr. RINGGOLD were both good. Miss IONE BURKE was unfortunately sick, but her place was prettily and effectively filled by Miss BARRETT—a young artiste whom we are glad to see progressing. For the first time we have to object to Mrs. JOHN SEFTON. The lady's facial costume was better adapted to a pantomime than a drama. Her performance of the part of the Marchioness was, otherwise, capital; quaint, quiet and humorous.

"Don Cæsar de Bazan" has been placed upon the stage superbly, and leaves nothing to be desired either in the way of scenery, costumes or music.

FROM THE STATE CAPITAL.

The New-York Central Railroad Fare Bill Passed by the Senate—The Supply and Charity Appropriation Bills—The Punishment of Frauds, &c.

Special Dispatches to the New-York Times.

ALBANY, Wednesday, April 18.

The bill allowing an increase of half a cent per mile passenger fare on fast trains of the New-York Central Railroad passed the Senate, as was expected, this afternoon. Various amendments were offered and voted down. Among these was one limiting the operation of the bill to three years; this was lost by 13 to 18. It is somewhat remarkable that every Senator was in his seat and responded to his name on the final passage of the bill.

The following are the yeas and nays:

YEAS—Messrs. Burnett, Chambers, Collins, C. G. Cornell, E. Cornell, Godard, Labau, Lent, H. C. Murphy, T. Murphy, Parsons, Pierson, Platt, Sutherland, White, Wilbor, Williams, Wolcott, Wood—18.

NAYS—Messrs. Andrews, Barnett, Campbell, Crowley, Folger, Gibson, Hoyt, Humphrey, Kline, Low, O'Donnell, Sessions, Stanford—13.

Opponents of the bill look for an Executive veto, but they will probably find themselves mistaken.

The Senate passed the Supply and Charity Appropriation Bills. An amendment was inserted in the former appropriating $10,000 toward building a new Capitol.

Senator O'DONNELL'S bill punishing frauds, ballot-stuffing, &c., at primary political meetings, has passed the Senate and was to-night referred to the Judiciary Committee in the House. The City Tax Levy has gone to the Senate. Previous to its passage Mr. LYONS obtained unanimous consent to insert amendments giving the following compensation to the Paid Fire Department: Foreman, $1,200 per annum; Assistant Foremen, $1,100; steamer engineers, $1,100; subordinate, $1,000. The Senate Bill to prohibit the issue of free passes on railroads has been ordered to a third reading in the Assembly, and will probably become a law.

Mr. SELDEN, from the Judiciary Committee, made a report in the matter of the memorial of DANIEL C. BIRDSALL, with reference to the impeachment of GEO. G. BARNARD, one of the Justices of the Supreme Court, concluding as follows: Your Committee discover nothing criminal in the conduct of Judge BARNARD, and no moral delinquency which would justify his conviction if articles of impeachment were preferred against him. On the ex parte statement which the memorial presents, there would seem to have been, in the exercise by the Judge of the large discretion which the law necessarily gives to high judicial officers, much that was arbitrary, and perhaps censurable, although neither criminal nor corrupt. But even a conclusion to that extent ought not to be indulged against the party charged on a merely ex parte statement, and if it were indulged, and the facts which would warrant it conclusively established, that conclusion would not, in the opinion of your Committee, furnish just grounds for impeachment. Your Committee, therefore, ask to be discharged from the further consideration of the subject.

BILLS PASSED.

To alter the map of the City of New-York; to widen Fifth-avenue, and provide an entrance to Central Park between Fifty-eighth and Fifty-ninth streets; the New-York City Tax Levy. The bill for the better regulation of gas companies was lost by 57 to 30 votes.

THE CONDITION OF TEXAS.

The Views of a Brave and Honest Volunteer—Faith in the President and his Administration—Loyalty in Texas—Misrepresentations Corrected.

The following interesting letter was recently received by the Secretary of State from a volunteer soldier of the Sixth Michigan Cavalry. It has been handed to us for publication:

Honorable Sir: I take this privilege of addressing to you a few lines from Texas. We volunteer soldiers who enlisted to help to put down the rebellion, who had not the means to meet in honor the demands of a draft, which was taking nearly every man that was not exempted, presented ourselves, if necessary, a sacrifice for our country, many of us leaving our wives and families at home among strangers, and in a destitute and helpless condition, not without the assurances of those in power that at the end of the war we should return to our families—those whom God in his kindness should spare. But how is it? No one does hesitate to claim that the war was at an end six months ago? Even Gen. Grant, our worthy President and yourself, if I understand you right in your speech at the Cooper Institute. Your speech found its way into the camp of the poor desponding volunteers, who had believed long ago they were forgotten—overlooked or misrepresented by the ambitious endeavors of the friends of the late freed people to 'establish equal rights with the whites. But, Sir, imagine the effect of your speech. It became the topic of conversation in our camp, and men who had given up nearly all hopes and confidence of those in authority at Washington begin to feel a ray of hope lighting up their countenances, feeling that there are true men in authority yet, who will adhere to the Constitution and the principles that elected them to power.

In you, Sir, and our worthy President, I think we can trust, as the men who will bring our country forth out of the hands of traitors, and make it ten fold more glorious than the country we gloried in before the war. May God bless your administration, so that every heart shall rejoice and be proud of his and her country. I believe, Sir, that Texas is falsely represented—that things are not near as bad as represented, I can truly vouch for—that a party for power and money is the cause which keeps us here so long from our homes and families. My regiment (the Fourth) and the Third Michigan Volunteers Infantry, came here last July, and have had nothing to do ever since but guard one another, and bury our dead comrades on the plains of Texas. The people all seem good and friendly. Many of the men who were in the rebel army are now in the employ of the Government, such as driving teams. Many of the inhabitants are Germans, who are all loyal, nearly to a man, and friends to the soldiers and the Union. One man and myself were sent from here, San Antonio, to Victoria, a distance of 130 miles, which journey we made on foot, and with pocket knives to defend ourselves with, and were not molested, nor had the least cause for fear. We stopped at houses for victuals—and to stay over night—over 100 miles from any of the troops. Our soldiers are scattered all over the State, and property is as safe in Texas as in any new State. The officers and others get big pay, and have a higher position than many of them ever had before, or will get again when out of it—young men (but boys some of them) without wives or families. There are but three officers married in my regiment, the Fourth Michigan, and two of them have their wives with them. I dare say that they would not object to stay in the service, while the private soldier is ill treated, gets little pay, and may have a wife and children who need his immediate services at home. Such is my case. I have a wife and children, and my wife is sick nearly all the time, and without friends or help.

TEXAS—THE COTTON PROSPECT.

The New-York Times, of Saturday, says:

"A gentleman who arrived in this City last evening direct from Texas, by the Galveston steamer, and whose means of information are unsurpassed, assures us that the cotton crop of that State for the present year will exceed 600,000 bales. The industrial question in Texas is rapidly finding a solution in the profitable labor contracts which are entered into. There is an entire absence of all political excitement. The negroes of the State are in perfect and blissful ignorance of the attempts going on in Washington to make them politicians, and it will take tons of Senatorial speeches to waken up any class of the Texas population on any subject not immediately bearing on the production of wealth.

This may be a melancholy prospect for the political 'Stiggins,' with his reformatory schemes, but it suits the views of both the laborer and the employer in Texas for the time. They are going to make money in that section of the country. If other cotton-growing States do half as well as Texas, (in proportion to their industrial strength,) the cotton crop this year will be more than double the ordinary estimate of its amount. Then comes the general trouble. Even now the signs unmistakably indicate the fall that must come."

The above is from the Galveston News. It contains a vast deal of homespun truth; and might be read with profit by nine-tenths of the present Congress. If, instead of quarreling about the political rights to be bestowed upon Sambo, they would apply themselves to that kind of legislation calculated to develop and improve the whole country, both North and South, and thereby benefit every person in it, both white and black, how much more would their labors be appreciated by their constituents and by the wise and good the world over. Let these Northern fanatics learn lessons of wisdom, even from the blacks of the South, if only in the art of honest money-making, and apply themselves to good hard labor, in something beneficial, and the whole country would be improved.

A Washington letter of March 10, says:

"Gens. Custer and Fremont arrived yesterday. Custer gave an account of political affairs in Texas. He says little or no loyalty exists outside our lines; and if our troops were withdrawn there would be none anywhere. Gold and silver are the circulating medium in many places. Greenbacks will buy neither food nor fuel. Matters daily growing worse."

That's a whopper! There is not a town in Texas in which greenbacks will not buy anything that is for sale.

THE PHILADELPHIA TRAGEDY.

Probst Indicted for the Murder of the Deering Family—Desperate Character of the Accused.

Philadelphia, Wednesday, April 18.

The Grand Jury this morning found a true bill of indictment against Antoine Probst, for the murder of the Dearing family.

The prisoner was brought into Court and arraigned at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

After much legal delay, the prisoner having no counsel, the Court assigned him Messrs. John P. O'Neill and J. C. Wolbert.

The prisoner at first stated that he did not wish to have any defence at all, but subsequently withdrew his objections to having counsel.

After conversation with the prisoner, Mr. O'Neill asked that the arraignment be postponed until himself and his colleague could be afforded time to examine the bill of indictment.

It is understood that Probst expresses a willingness to plead guilty to the count in the bill charging him with the murder of Cornelius Carey.

The District-Attorney, however, designs to try him upon the count charging him with the murder of Mr. Dearing.

This will show the confidence of the Commonwealth officer in the strength of his case, without availing himself of the pretended confession of the murder.

From information received from persons who belonged to the same regiment and company as Probst, it is learned that he was a bounty-jumper who had entered the service several times and had received large bounties. It is also alleged that he shot his thumb off deliberately in order to gain his discharge. Among his comrades his character was anything but enviable.

AFFAIRS IN MEXICO.

Defeat of the Liberals by the Counter-Guerrilla Corps of Col. Dupin—Murders by the Apache Indians—Affairs at Chihuahua.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Havana, Saturday, April 14, 1866.

The last accounts received from Mexico mention a victory obtained by the French contra-guerrilla chief, Col. Dupin, over the brother of the newly-elected Liberal Commander, Gaiza, at Orcasitas. It appears that Col. Dupin left Tula on the 5th of last month for Tampico, and on the 11th came up with some of the enemy's dragoons, ambuscaded along the side of the road that the Imperialists were following. They were immediately attacked and pursued by the latter, who succeeded in capturing four men and ten horses.

On the following day, the 12th, the Imperialists continued their march to Orcasitas, and at about a league distant from that place the force divided, a part crossing the wood to take the highroad to Concepcion, while the second squadron, under the command of Lieut. Ezpeleta, continued their march to Orcasitas.

The place was deserted, but on the road to Concepcion 250 of the enemy's cavalry formed in line of battle, under the command of Jesus de la Gaiza, the General's brother. The Imperialist account says that the Liberals were routed immediately, forty of them being killed by the Imperial dragoons in their escape, and six taken prisoners. The remainder sought refuge in the woods. The booty taken was fifty muskets, several horses, saddled, and the Commander's baggage.

The Imperialist papers speak in very complimentary terms of the defence made by the French commander, Bastidon, at Parras against the Liberals. The latter amounted to 1,500 men, and on receiving news of their approach the French commander took shelter in a redoubt with only forty-four men of his company and twenty-six privates of the artillery, having for defence only a mortar without ammunition, one musket, and some carbines. The mortar was fixed in a prominent part of the tower for appearance sake, and the greater part of the men stationed in the loftiest part of the building for the same purpose. The ruse succeeded, for the Liberals, judging that the force was larger than it really was, as well as the means of defence more adequate than they had expected, sent a flag of truce twice intimating to the French commander to surrender. This was flatly refused, and two attempts to take the fort by storm having failed, the Liberals laid formal siege to it, which lasted for forty hours, at the end of which the garrison must have surrendered from sheer exhaustion, or have been killed, had it not been for the opportune arrival of Capt. Saupier with reinforcements, when the Liberals fled immediately on their approach.

The Apache Indians on the frontiers of Sonora and New-Mexico have been lately committing great outrages. On the 20th of February last the Indians made an attack on a party of twenty-two individuals who were going from Granados to Moctezuma to make some purchases, of whom they slew ten, including two women, besides wounding six others, and carried off sixty-one mules that were either loaded or used for riding, besides $500 in silver. Among the killed, particular mention is made of a young man named Escalante, who had performed important services in the garrisons on the frontier, and had never joined any of the guerrilla parties that infest those parts.

According to the imperial accounts military matters were going on well for the Empire to the northwest of Chihuahua. The Districts of Abasalo and Guerrero had been reduced to submission by the allied Indians. Maj. Billot, who commanded the military forces at Chihuahua did not intend to leave without first fortifying the town. It is denied that his force had suffered the losses in men which had been reported by the Liberals.

Mateo Morales, Chief of the Caratzumarcs of San Lorenzo, entered Cosihuiriachie on the 17th of January last, where he proclaimed the Empire. The leaders of the Liberals on his approach fled, without attempting to hold the place. Morales continued his march, and on the 19th entered Concepcion. The latter place is to be garrisoned by a permanent force of Indians, consisting of 200 infantry and 150 cavalry.

LARA.

FROM HAVANA.

News from the Pacific Coast—The War Between Spain and Chili—Capture of Concepcion by the Spanish Fleet.

Havana, Saturday, April 14.

The steamer Barcelona arrived yesterday from St. Thomas, Puerto Rico and St. Domingo, from the latter we get no news, neither is any published in the papers of Santiago de Cuba. No cause is yet assigned for this.

From Puerto Rico we have dates to the 3d. A subscription has been started at Nagriabo to aid Spain in the war declared against her by Chili and Peru. Nothing is said about Ecuador or other South American Republics. Small pox is reported raging in Ponce.

The Bishop, whose health has been failing for some time past, is about leaving for Spain. The Government of Puerto Rico has decreed that passports, and all other documentary trammels to travelers, shall be abolished to and from those countries where the passport system has been abolished.

March 26, at 8:30 P. M., an earthquake was felt at Ponce.

The Barcelona carried to Peurto Pico $50,000 on account of sums loaned from the treasury for the expenses of the famous "reincorporation of Santa Domingo."

The steamship Liberty arrived here, yesterday, from Baltimore, and leaves this afternoon for New-Orleans.

The Diario de la Marina has to-day a telegraphic dispatch stating that on the 28th of February the Spanish frigates Blanca and Berenguila bombarded the port of Concepcion, in Chili, and then landed a force which captured the town. The dispatch also states that one vessel was sunk by them, and that the Spanish men-of-war Almansa and Consuelo had arrived at Montevideo.

Everybody who has seen it has admired a splendid life-sized medallion head in alto relievo, lately executed from a photograph by Signor Ferdinando Bossi, a distinguished artist now residing here. He took the first medal in Italy, in 1844, also the first medal in 1846, and the second medal in the same year for statuary and medallions. The likeness is wonderful and recognized by all who enter the United States Consulate General's, where it now hangs. Mr. Bossi proposes reproducing it by subscription, and although the list is not yet open, many are waiting to subscribe.

On Wednesday there was a grand ball at the General de Marina. The display of diamonds was very great, and generally the ladies dress richer and more elegant than I have ever seen at the Palace. Many of the guests went to the opera first, it being the first night of La Juive. The theatre was full. Graw and troupe leave on Thursday for Matanzas, where they remain till the 24th, and returning to this place on that day. Amastasi has his benefit, and they leave for New-York. Gazzaniga has her benefit to-night.

The health of the city continues good.

Arrest of Gen. Burbridge Contradicted.

Louisville, Wednesday, April 18.

A distinguished Federal officer, formerly commanding this post, who has just arrived from New-Orleans, contradicts positively the recently-reported arrest of Gen. Burbridge or of his brother Oscar. He says such report probably arose from the arrest of several sub-agents recently made by Gen. Burbridge.

SAN FRANCISCO.

The Late Terrible Explosion—All Nitro-glycerine in the City to be Destroyed—Sixteen Persons Killed.

San Francisco, Tuesday, April 17.

It is now rendered certain that nitro-glycerine caused yesterday's explosion. No marks on the box containing it indicated its character.

The bodies of eight persons killed by yesterday's explosion have been identified. Seven or eight others are missing, who were probably blown to atoms.

It is tolerably well ascertained that the explosion was caused by concussion in opening a leaking box of nitro-glycerine, which the owner refused to receive in consequence of its damaged condition.

The Board of Supervisors have passed an order causing all nitro-glycerine found within the city to be seized and destroyed. They have also passed resolutions of respect to the memory of Mr. G. W. Bell.

The remainder of the passengers from the wreck of the La Bouchere arrived here yesterday.

The Pacific Whaling Fleet.

San Francisco, Tuesday, April 17.

About one hundred whalers have recently been heard from, all very successful, the amount of oil secured running from 200 to 500 barrels each.

LOUISIANA.

Rinderpest in the Upper Part of the State—Damage to Cotton by Frost and Rain—Order from Gen. Canby.

New-Orleans, Wednesday, April 18.

The inclosures on the levee of the New-York Mail Steamship Company, and of the Atlantic and Mississippi Steamboat Company, were torn down to-day, amidst great excitement. It was done by the City Surveyor by order of the Council, on the ground that the inclosures were illegal.

A mule-rinderpest prevails in Upper Louisiana and Mississippi. The buffalo gnats are killing off mules and horses. On one plantation 38, on another 25, and on others 20 were carried off in a single night.

Reports continue of the damage done to cotton and seed by the frost and rain.

The first race to-day, mile heats, best 3 in 5, was won by Gilroy—time, 2.02, 2.02¼, 2.05¼. The second race, a two-mile dash, was won by Charley Armstrong—time, 4.06.

Gen. Canby has issued an order explanatory of the President's proclamation. He says it does not suspend martial law.

A number of suits are already before the military Courts.

Arrived steamer Raleigh, New-York.

Sailed Marmion for New-York.

Cotton—better qualities stiffer; low grades unchanged; low middling 35½c.@36c.; receipts to-day 1,260 bales; accounts from the country are discouraging. Gold 126¾. TENNESSEE.

The Trial of Henry Bruner—Oil Refinery at Nashville.

Nashville, Tenn., Wednesday, April 18.

The trial of Henry Bruner was resumed this morning. Capt. Samuel P. Voorhees of the Thirty-eighth Illinois Volunteers, Judge Advocate, made application for an adjournment of the case, on the ground that an application has been made to the General commanding the military division to send for counsel to assist in the prosecution of the case. No definite reply has been received to this application, and the case was therefore adjourned.

Application is soon to be made to the Legislature for a charter for an oil refinery to be located near this city.

The Glycerine Explosion at San Francisco—Premature Explosion of a Blast.

San Francisco, Wednesday, April 18.

A premature explosion of a blast occurred yesterday near Colfax, Cal., by which six men lost their lives.

The Newport Mayoralty.

Providence, R. I., Wednesday, April 18.

Samuel A. Parker was to-day elected Mayor of Newport by 181 majority over the present incumbent. Mr. Parker is the present State Treasurer.

GREAT FENIAN DEMONSTRATION.

The Last Speech-making of the Roberts-Sweeny Faction—The Last Appeal—All but Ready for the Field.

Last evening the Union Hall of the Cooper Institute was filled with enthusiastic Fenians of the Sweeny denomination. A band was in attendance, which, prior to the formal opening of the meeting, played national and Irish airs alternately. As the programme promised was one of speech-making only, the desire to know how matters are getting on can be appreciated by the fact that despite of the car difficulty, the threatening rain, and the fifty cents charged for admission, the hall was filled.

After a brief but energetic speech by Mr. Collahan, Mr. Roberts and a number of other distinguished Fenians made their appearance, and were greeted with tumultuous applause.

Mr. Roberts came forward and was greeted with repeated cheers. When quiet was restored he spoke at great length, expressing his bitter sorrow that the hopes which had animated him when he last met them there had since been doomed to disappointment—for he had hoped that 'ere the first day of the year 1866 the Irish people would have stood in serried ranks, with Generals at their head. After that night, said Mr. Roberts, the money poured in lavishly, and the future looked full of promise; but what is the result of all? When I think of the long nights of bitter agony which the sad dissensions which followed that night has caused me, I know not how it has been earned by me. No man can point to me and say, Roberts, you have done one dishonest or dishonorable action, not one. A poor Irish boy, this glorious country welcomed me, and in it I have worked my way up to an honest and an honorable position as a citizen. I joined the organization not to make money, but to lose it, not to gain new life, but to lose one. I risk my all, as do these gentlemen who accompany me to-night; all that is dear to us; the respect of our fellow-beings—our respect for ourselves. I feel like a guilty thing when I rise to make a speech, but it is necessary that I should appeal to you for the means to achieve that success for which we strive and pray, one and all of us. We want means to perfect the grandest movement that ever was matured against a tyranny. You must give it to us, and if we do not use it for the purpose to which it is given may the curses of generations cling to us and ours. We ought not to have to come before you to make this appeal, but you force us to it with your apathy. It is not too late to strike a blow for Ireland, and that blow will be struck as sure as there is a Supreme Being listening to our pledge to-night. We don't wish to see blood flow in our unfortunate mother country; we do not wish to see the few hearths yet covered by a roof left lone and desolate. We shall fight England on her own ground. We are going to fight England 3,000 miles from her base, and no power can stop us, for we will break no tie of duty we owe to the country of our adoption. When in Washington last week, said Mr. Roberts, an honest, candid American said to me, "Come, now, Roberts, what is all this fuss about; what do you mean; are you going to fight or not?" I replied, that question would at any time be an insult to an Irishman." [Laughter.] "But come, now, be serious, Roberts, what do you mean?" "We mean fight, Sir, and that soon, as sure as the Irishmen of the North meant fight when they shouldered Federal muskets!" "Is that so?" said my American friend; "then if you are, go ahead, my boy, and you will find Americans d—d neutral." But we want means; will you give them? Cries of we will! we will! Then if you do I pledge myself before God to-night that that flag, the sunburst, shall never again be seen on a platform till it has waved over a field of victory. All that is wanted now is ammunition, but we must have means to purchase it; should you fail to give us this we will leave you as a legacy of your shame the thousands of muskets and the cannon which we have purchased with your money and we shall leave the record of our expenditure which will prove an honest one. But we do not fear a calamity like this. We rely upon you with confidence, that that which is so well begun will have a glorious ending. This is the last speech I shall ever make upon a platform in an appeal to Irishmen, till that blow is struck, which we now swear to strike, and strike sooner than many dream of. I have staked all that I value on this issue, and whatever may be the result of our contest with England's tyranny, the record I shall leave behind me will be a fair one. No dollar of the money given for this glorious purpose has ever stained my pocket. No dollar ever shall, while God gives me the strength to earn an honest shilling. Mr. Roberts sat down amid great enthusiasm, in which the entire crowd, men and women, rose to their feet and cheered with vehemence.

Senator A. L. Morrison, of Missouri, next spoke. Enthusiastic as Mr. Roberts was Mr. Morrison out-Heroded him. He also spoke at considerable length, stating that this for him was also a last speech. Away with speech-making, he had had enough of it. He had left his home with thousands of others not for speech-making, but never to return to wives or children in the West until an Irish flag was unfurled upon a field of battle. He, like a million others, had left Ireland "with a vengeance," as the brutal London Times said, when poverty drove them to emigration to the land which gave them welcome—this glorious land. Yes, they had left Ireland with a vengeance; and, as a miser nursed his gold, they had nursed that vengeance, they had cherished it, it had grown great among them; and the day is now at hand when they should return it with a vengeance. Let English aristocracy, or those who uphold their tyranny, meet us, and we will bring to their memory that it was the hard handed Democrats of America that tore down to shame the cross of St. George, and planted above it the starry banner of the Republic. Let us meet England anywhere, no matter where—anywhere, where her subjects suffer—anywhere a red coat can be reached. She must be fought everywhere, and the battle must be begun at once. Ireland is one vast prison and you know it, and thousands already yearn through prison bars for the light which you have promised them shall shine across the waters from the sun of liberty that blesses you among the children of this great Republic.

Senator Morrison was followed by other speakers till the crowd separated at a late hour.

Trotting on the Union Course, Long Island—A Stallion Match.

A stallion trot for $600, mile heats, best three in five, came off on the Fashion Course, Long Island, yesterday afternoon, between two horses owned in Fulton Market, and known on the road by the names of Indian Chief and Hornflower; the former in harness and the latter to a 350-pound wagon. The race excited very little interest beyond the immediate friends of the respective owners of the horses, of whom there was a strong muster present. Indian Chief having proved the winner in a previous match this season, was at once installed as the favorite in the betting, $100 to $50 being bet on his winning. Disappointment, however, awaited his backers, for Hornblower, notwithstanding his heavy rig, won very easily in three straight heats in 3:11, 3:12, 3:09.

GENERAL CITY NEWS.

Commerce in the Orient.—Rev. D. Stuart Dodge delivered an interesting familiar lecture on "Commerce in the Orient," at the Free Reading-room of the Young Men's Christian Association, No. 76 Varick-street, last evening, to a large and attentive audience. He glanced at the past and briefly stated the present condition of Eastern commerce, and concluded by urging young men to read and store their minds in relation to the avenues for valuable commerce which were being opened by God all through the East. By reading they would obtain more enlarged views of trade, and be the more likely to subserve its interests to their own welfare and the glory of God.

Grand Protestant Celebration.—The three-hundred and thirty-seventh anniversary of the signing of the great protest by Martin Luther and the other Reformers, and of the jubilee year of the American Bible Society, will be held in Cooper Institute this evening. Rev. Stephen H. Tyng, D. D.; Rev. W. Adams, D. D.; Rev. H. W. Beecher; Rev. T. C. Strong, D. D.; Rev. A. H. Vinton, D. D.; Rev. G. B. Cheever, D. D.; Rev. J. Dowling, D. D., and others have been invited and are expected to be present and address the meeting.

Prof. Doremus' Lecture To-night.—We have already noticed the fact that Prof. Doremus' lecture at the Brooklyn Academy of Music on Tuesday evening was, in every respect, a complete and gratifying success. To-night the second lecture of the course will be delivered, when the Professor will explain the method by which ghosts are scientifically produced. The audience will doubtless be large enough to keep in countenance those who are nervous about spectres.

A Safe Blown Open in Lexington-avenue.—On Tuesday night, the coal-office of A. L. Benedict, No. 208 Lexington-avenue, was entered by burglars, who blew open the safe with powder. The explosion was heard by the Police, who arrested Thomas Murray and John J. Wilkinson, on suspicion of having blown open the safe. The prisoners were held for examination. Nothing was stolen, and the thieves left several burglarious implements in the place.

Sale of Paintings this Evening.—The collection of paintings by prominent American artists, now on exhibition at the Somerville Art Gallery, will be sold this evening by auction. There are many works of great merit among this collection, and it is to be hoped that the picture-loving public will show their appreciation of the American art, and not pour out their purses solely for the benefit of foreign artists and impostors.

Atlantic and Great Western Railway.—The management of this line in connection with the Erie Railway Company, are delighting the traveling community with their through trains, composed of new broad-guage cars, and palace sleeping-cars between New-York, Cincinnati and Cleveland. All who desire improvements in railroad travel should not fail to try this great route.

Arrest for Reckless Driving.—Charles Newbeck, a lad 13 years of age, living at No. 322 First-street, Williamsburgh, was knocked down in Canal-street, near West Broadway, by one of Grover & Baker's wagons, driven by Peter B. Gaynor. The boy's leg was fractured in a dangerous manner. Gaynor was arrested, and Justice Hogan held him to await the result of the boy's injuries.

A Trunk Broken Open and Robbed.—Detective Field, of the Fifth Precinct, arrested Kievan Colden, on a charge of having broken open and stolen $180 from a trunk belonging to Mary Ahearn, of No. 193 West-street, during her temporary absence. A part of the stolen property was found in possession of the prisoner, and Justice Hogan committed him for trial.

Found Drowned.—The body of an unknown man was found floating in the dock, foot of Twenty-third-street, East River. Deceased was five feet six inches in height, and had dark hair. The body appeared to have been in the water a long time.

Union War Prisoners' Association.—A meeting of ex-officers of the United States Army who were prisoners of war in 1861 will be held at the Metropolitan Hotel this evening, to hear the report of the Special Committee appointed to carry out the objects of the meeting.

NEW-JERSEY.

Raid on New-York Peddlers.—For several days past a number of the Jersey City Policemen have been paying particular attention to the peddlers from New-York who cross over to Jersey City for the purpose of supplying their customers with crackers, candy, pies, cured fish, mustards, &c. About a dozen of these peddlers have been arrested since Saturday morning last, and in each case they have been mulcted in the sum of $50, under the State law for peddling without a license, one-half of which goes to the officer making the arrest and complaint. The $25 received by the officers accounts for their activity and zeal in the matter.

An Independent Detective Police.—Ex-Alderman and Ex-Recorder Thomas E. Tilden, of Jersey City, announces that he is about to establish an independent Detective Police to act in conjunction with the Police of New-York, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington and other cities. Unless the Police force becomes much more efficient under the new Police Commissioners who assume control over the department on the 1st of May, there will certainly be a good field for the operations of an independent detective force in Jersey City.

The Ætna Insurance Company of New-York.

This corporation, which was originally chartered by the Legislature in 1824, has been reorganized, and the capital stock increased from $200,000 to $300,000. Under its present charter, the Company is authorized to insure against loss or damage by inland navigation and transportation, as well as against fire. The new stock has been subscribed by our most wealthy and influential citizens, whose business has already added largely to the premiums for the past month. Col. F. A. Conkling, of the gallant Eighty-fourth Regiment, whose services, not only in the army, but in the State Legislature and in Congress, are highly appreciated by many of our citizens, and especially by all tax-payers, has recently been chosen President of the company. Mr. H. C. Beach has been elected Vice-President, and Mr. C. M. St. John Secretary. Under the able and conservative management of these gentlemen, the company cannot fail largely to increase its business and profits, and we have no hesitation in predicting for it a long career of prosperity. Its office on Broadway and Maiden-lane is one of the most eligible in the City.—Express.

Luxury Has its Great Staples.—Phalon's "Night-Blooming Cereus" is one of them. It is as salable as bread—as current as coin. Fashionable society indorses it. The people approve it. It has no equal, and, save the charlatans who try in vain to imitate it, no enemies.—Vinton Eagle.

A Deceptive Malady.

So insidious are the first approaches of Consumption, that thousands remain unconscious of its presence until it has brought them to the verge of the grave. An immediate resort to DR. JAYNE'S EXPECTORANT, upon the first appearance of the Cough, Pain or Soreness of the Throat or Chest, would very generally preclude a fatal result, or, in case the Symptoms indicate the presence of Latent Consumption, would tend to subdue the violence of the disease, and thus materially assist in prolonging the life of the patient. Use the Expectorant, therefore, when you take cold, and thus prevent the necessity for its use in more dangerous complaints. Sold everywhere.

Burnett's Florimel Closely Resembles the odor of a rare and delicate bouquet of flowers, and in this respect it stands unrivaled. A few drops will leave its peculiar and delightful fragrance upon the handkerchief for many hours.

BURNETT'S COLOGNE is equal to the best imported. It is put up in a neat and elegant style, and wins for itself a favorite place on the dressing-table. Its intrinsic merits really justify the high reputation in which it is held.—Providence Journal.

That the great superiority of these instruments is now universally conceded is abundantly proven by the fact that Messrs. PERILS OF NAVIGATION.

The Steamer City of Norwich Burned on the Sound.

TEN LIVES SUPPOSED TO BE LOST.

THE VESSEL A TOTAL LOSS.

Full Particulars of the Disastrous Event.

The steamer City of Norwich, of the New-London and New-York line of steamers, came in collision with the schooner Gen. S. Van Vliet in Long Island Sound, off Huntington Light, about 3:30 o'clock yesterday morning. The schooner struck the City of Norwich just forward of the paddle-house, crushing in her side, and allowing the water to rush in on her lower deck. The steamer being supplied with upper and lower furnaces, the water soon reached the lower fires and forced the flames into the fire room, resulting in the wood-work taking fire. The flames spread with great rapidity, communicating with the cargo, when the steamer was enveloped in a sheet of flame. The steamer had fifty persons on board, and at the time of the catastrophe the passengers and most of the crew were in bed. When they had thoroughly awakened, the confusion was naturally great. No sooner were boats lowered than they were swamped by the crew or passengers jumping into and capsizing them. Very fortunately the steamer Electra, on the way from Providence to this City, was following in the wake of the City of Norwich, and on discovering the condition of the burning steamer, she stopped her engines and lowered her four boats, which, in charge of Mr. DAVID CROWLEY, the first mate, Mr. CHARLES B. SMITH, Chief-Engineer, and other officers of the rescuing steamer, were soon present at the scene of the disaster. Owing to the floating debris being nearly all on fire the labor was a perilous one, but the brave men in the boats persevered in their efforts to save the struggling men and women with such success that forty souls were rescued from a watery grave.

When the boats of the Electra returned with their loads, many of those taken on board that steamer were in an exhausted condition. Every possible care was taken of the sufferers, fires being lighted in the staterooms, around which the sufferers were placed, covered with blankets, and in this condition they were brought to this City, where every possible attention was afforded them by the New-York Transportation Company.

As the schooner Van Vliet, which struck the City of Norwich, receded by the force of the shock, the crew, believing her to be much injured and in a sinking condition, deserted her, and they were also rescued by the boats belonging to the Electra.

Since the arrival of the crew and passengers at this port we have obtained the following

STATEMENT OF THE FIRST PILOT.

Mr. HENRY L. TRACY, first pilot on board the steamer City of Norwich, gave the following statement to our reporter: I came on watch at 3 A. M., having JOHN CARPENTER as my wheelsman. The weather was quite thick, though a light could be seen a short distance. The first intimation I had of any danger was seeing the schooner close aboard of us. This was about 3:35 o'clock. I saw no light before the schooner struck us, and the lookout stationed at our bow gave no alarm, nor did any one on board the schooner make any hail. When I first saw the Van Vliet she was so close that I could not have possibly cleared her in time without help from the schooner. She struck us just forward of the paddle-box. Immediately after the collision I headed the steamer for Huntington Bay, then about two miles distant, as I knew we had had a very hard lick, and the chances were we would sink, if our water-tight bulkhead did not prevent. When we had got quite clear of the schooner, I blew three whistles, as a signal of distress to the steamer Electra, which we knew to be about eight miles behind us. The Captain also directed the bell to be tolled. At this time I had no apprehensions of the steamer catching fire, for I did not dream of that. We had gone about a quarter of a mile when I found the vessel was on fire, and I stopped her, as I knew the boats would be lowered and the paddles would swamp them. As we stopped Capt. STURGIS gave orders for the boats to be cleared and lowered. I then told the wheelsman that we could be of no use any more in the pilot-house, and we left and started aft to take care of ourselves. As we passed the engine-room we found the flames had great headway, and we were compelled to crawl through the flames to reach the boats. When we got aft one of the small boats had been lowered by one of the firemen and four more of the crew who had started for the Electra. Soon after our life-boat (Francis' metallic) was lowered, but was immediately swamped by so many jumping into her. The Captain, engineer, the wheelsman and myself then attempted to launch the quarter-boat, but the flames drove us away, and we were obliged to jump overboard. I slipped down by the davit-fall and caught hold of the bow of the life-boat, and endeavored to instruct those hanging on to her how to act, for I knew that if the boat was properly managed she would support forty or fifty. Instead of listening to my directions, those near the boat got on one side, and rolled her over and over several times, keeping me under water about half the time. Finding that they either could not or would not listen to me, I let go and swam off to the steamer, catching hold of the paddle-box. The Captain and myself were the last to leave the ship, and were severely burned before we did so. At this time all who were on board the steamer at the time of the collision were in the water, except those who had gone in the first boat. When I let go of the life-boat I felt compelled to do so, in order to save myself. At that time the Electra was about a furlong distant, lying to. Soon after her boats came to our assistance. The first boat that arrived was in charge of the mate, and the next was under the command of Mr. DAVID CROWLEY, first officer of the Electra. He picked me up and some eighteen or twenty others. The boats hung round the wreck for some time in hopes of finding more persons. There was considerable difficulty in doing so, for the freight had floated off the steamer and was nearly all on fire, spreading over a circumference of four or five hundred feet of the surface of the water. This caused great confusion and difficulty, as the boats were compelled to dodge in and out to pick up those floating in the water, being unable to use their oars. I consider that Capt. STURGIS did everything possible under the circumstances.

A PASSENGER'S STATEMENT.

The following statement is made by Mr. EDWIN PREMER, Superintendent of the Central Express, who was on board the steamer City of Norwich at the time of the disaster:

About 4 A. M., April 18, while off Huntington, L. I., the freight steamer City of Norwich was run into by the three masted schooner Gen. S. Van Vliet. The weather was foggy, with light easterly wind. The schooner was not seen by the officers of the steamer until the time of the collision. The schooner struck the steamer head on, on the port side, near her forward gangway. The force of the collision carried away the bowsprit, figure-head, and upper part of the bows of the schooner, which was found to be rapidly leaking and abandoned by the Captain and crew, who were taken on board the steamer Electra. The City of Norwich rapidly filled, until the water reached the furnaces. The burning coals were scattered from the furnaces over the deck, and in a very few minutes the flames spread rapidly over the vessel, enveloping her in fire. Within thirty minutes of the time of the collision the burning vessel sank. Including her officers and crew, there were forty-five persons on board of the City of Norwich, of whom thirty-five were rescued through the gallant exertions of the Captain, officers and crew of the steamer Electra, Capt. J. W. NYE, of the Neptune Steamship Company. Capt. NYE, upon discovering that the City of Norwich was on fire, immediately stopped his vessel, and, with the aid of his officers and crew and the assistance of passengers, launched four staunch life-boats and dispatched them to the rescue of the sufferers. The scene at this juncture was heart-rending. The screams of women and children, mingled with the imploring shouts of frantic men, filled the air and shocked the ear, as one after another, they leaped from the burning vessel into the water, whence they were picked up by the boats of the Electra—many of them nearly exhausted. Too much praise cannot be awarded to Capt. NYE, Messrs. CROWLEY and NYE, Jr., his mates, Mr. PERSONS, the pilot, Mr. SMITH, the steward, and indeed, the officers and crew, generally, of the steamer Electra, for their energetic and humane efforts, and particularly to Capt. NYE, who did not hesitate to take a responsibility which steamboat captains sometimes do not assume in cases of this kind. Everything was done for the sufferers as soon as they reached the Electra, and most of them were speedily restored to a condition of comparative comfort. Two or three, however, who had been bruised by the falling packages from the burning deck, were severely injured, but it is thought these will recover. The City of Norwich was a staunch and capacious vessel about two years old, owned by the Norwich and New-London Steamboat Company, and was filled with a valuable cargo of dry goods, boots and shoes, and other Eastern manufactures.

THE STEAMER CITY OF NORWICH

was launched in May, 1861, and was built by JOHN ENGLAND & SON, of this City, as a freight steamer. She was of about 800 tons burden, with the following dimensions: Length, 200 feet; depth, 12 feet; beam, 36 feet. She was considered a fair specimen of her class, and had an average speed and power. The company have already perfected arrangements for raising her, and have also chartered another boat to take her place on the line. The value of the cargo could not be learned owing, to the purser's papers having been lost with the steamer.

THE CAR-DRIVERS' STRIKE.

Business on the Railroads Resumed—New Drivers Occupying the Places of the Strikers—No Compromise Between the Companies and the Old Drivers—Conductors Discharged on the Seventh-avenue Line—Meeting of Citizens at the City Hall—Resolutions, &c.

The cars upon the various City roads were running quite regularly yesterday, and the public experienced less inconvenience from the strike than on any previous day since the trouble began. No arrangement has been made with the old drivers, but the companies are employing new men to take their places. The directors are determined that they will not yield the point for which they are contending which, they claim, is simply the right to manage their own roads according to their own views. The drivers say that their labor is worth more than they have been receiving, that they will not work without the increase demanded, and are unwilling that any one else shall. While the majority of them are law-abiding men, and are opposed to any steps being taken to secure their object which are not in accordance with law and humanity, there are some of them who, aided by a number of irresponsible and disinterested rowdies have resorted to measures riotous in their nature. On Tuesday night the cars were stopped on two of the roads by gangs of these men, who assaulted the new drivers in a most unmerciful manner, and had not the Police interfered murder would doubtless have been committed. One of the unfortunate drivers thus assailed was cut in the head with a knife, and in dressing the wound a piece of the knife-blade, half an inch long, was extracted. The man was not seriously injured, however, and was yesterday driving his car, expressing his determination to earn a living for his family or die in the attempt. Another new driver, after having completed his work on Tuesday, and while on his way home was set upon by several of the old drivers and very roughly handled. During the row the new driver was stabbed in the leg, a slight cut only being inflicted. A number of others have been beaten by the strikers, who threaten them with still further violence if they continue to drive. Hundreds of new men are applying for the vacant places on the cars, and would be only too glad to earn two dollars per day if the strikers would only permit them to do so. The experiment of removing the policemen from the cars has been tried, but after a few trips without them it was found necessary to reinstate them on the front platforms. Without such protection the new drivers are so threatened and abused along their entire route that they dare not repeat the experiment. During the day the strikers have necessarily to be exceedingly cautious in their demonstrations of violence, but immediately after dark they step forth boldly and assail the drivers, cut the harness, and otherwise prevent the running of the cars. To such an extent has this been carried that it has been found impossible to run any cars after darkness sets in. The companies are striving to accommodate the public in their usual manner, and that the customary number of cars is not running is attributable solely to the old drivers. We are informed by the officers in charge of the police forces at the several depots that each company has employed twice as many new drivers as they have cars, but that they have been so intimidated as to compel them to leave. Notice has been sent to the companies by the officers of the Soldiers' Employment Association that they can furnish any number of men who have been soldiers and served faithfully during the war to drive their cars, and who will be glad to earn the wages offered. Many of such have been sent to the various roads, and while some of them went to work immediately, others were frightened away or bought off by the strikers. Yet, with all this to contend with, the Companies yesterday managed to meet the demands upon their several roads with much promptness. There were running yesterday upon the Second-avenue line about 40 cars; on the Third-avenue, 80; on the Fourth-avenue, 50; on the Sixth-avenue, 40; on the Eighth-avenue, 40; Broadway and University-place, 30, being the full complement; Bleecker-street and Fulton Ferry, 35, full number; on all the other roads about half the usual number.

At noon yesterday, the Superintendent of the Seventh-avenue road, being desirous to run more cars, notified the conductors that they must turn drivers. On their refusing to do this, they were immediately discharged. Thirty-five, we learn, were thus summarily dismissed. This action is looked upon with indignation by all who heard the facts, as not only an outrage upon the conductors, but as calculated to create further trouble among the employes of the various roads. It is creditable to the other managers that they do not approve of nor intend to follow this pernicious example.

The policemen are complaining bitterly of the extra duty imposed upon them by reason of this strike. Their sympathies are with the men, as is evident from the modest contributions they have made to the strikers' fund; the course pursued by the drivers, however, compels the policemen to be constantly on duty, deprives them of their usual hours of rest, and forces them occasionally to use their clubs upon heads which their hands caress.

At a meeting of the drivers on Monday night it was resolved to leave the issues of the strike to the arbitration of twelve disinterested persons, to be selected in equal numbers by the antagonistic parties. The drivers named their six men, who were entirely unconnected with the railroad interests, but the managers of the roads decline to submit to any arbitration of the matter. They allege that the affair has passed the bounds of a strike, and that the drivers have organized a mob for the purpose of dictating conditions to the Companies, and they refuse to submit the management of their roads into other hands. In short, the black flag has been raised on both sides, and each army has adopted the motto, "War to the knife, and the knife to the hilt." It would be difficult, as matters now stand, to suggest a solution of the matter. One fact is apparent—the old drivers have lost their situations, and the Companies are doing very well without their services. Yet there is scarcely a Company which would not now be glad to receive their old employes again at the old wages; but a day or two more will put a different face upon the matter. The new drivers who stick to their posts through this difficulty will be retained in preference to all other applicants.

A meeting of drivers was held at the City Hall at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, whereat were assembled about 1,000 of their number and a few sympathizing friends. The drivers came upon the ground in processions from their different localities, some with fife and drum at their head; others with banners flying, and others without any ostentatious display. The Third-avenue procession was headed by an express wagon, loaded with the officers of the Association, and decorated with American and Fenian flags, and several mottoes. This procession marched by the various newspaper offices, to the City Hall, where it was received with cheers loud and long. Another wagon, filled with men, was adorned with a large placard, on which was inscribed "Broadway and Seventh-avenue Conductors discharged for not driving cars." These decapitated collectors were welcomed with loud and prolonged shouts. Mr. THOMAS LEVINS finally called the meeting to order, and after a few remarks, announced that it was the determination of the Association to stand by the platform it had adopted, viz., $2 50 per day or no work. Several speakers addressed the assemblage, among whom were Messrs. JOHNSON, MCMASTERS, KEEGAN, NEWMAN and others. The speakers appealed but slightly to the passions of their hearers, counseling the preservation of the peace, abstinence from intoxicating drinks and firmness of purpose. The drivers were congratulated upon the sympathy manifested in their behalf by the public and the Press, and were told that if they but worked harmoniously together and stood shoulder to shoulder in their righteous cause, they would not only succeed in securing the remuneration asked, but would give a new dignity to labor and to workingmen. Mr. KEEGAN, who is a young Hibernian from Harlem, we understand, was eloquent in his remarks, refined and elegant in his language, dignified in his deportment, and calm and impressive in his counsels. He is an able advocate of the rights of labor, and one whose remarks carry the weight of truthfulness with them. He was opposed to combinations of labor, generally, and also to strikes; but when capital combined, forming wealthy monopolies, to oppress the workingman, then combinations of labor became necessary, and united antagonistic action necessary. He was proud of the non-aggressive policy pursued by the drivers during their days of trouble, and warned them that their only hope of success was in continuing peaceable and law-abiding to the end. He announced that a subscription would be opened then and there for the benefit of those drivers who were in need of assistance. Other speakers followed with short speeches, in most of which the railroad companies were denounced in round terms. The following resolutions were offered by Mr. MCDONOUGH BUCKLAND, and unanimously adopted:

Whereas, The car drivers of the City have been on a strike over eight days for an advance of pay from $2 to $2 50 per day for each driver; and

Whereas, The railroad kings seem to be fully determined to reduce the workingmen down to a point of starvation and desperation, crime in the eyes of the law may be committed; be it therefore

Resolved, That we appeal to all good and true men to come out and demand that the car drivers must have the sum for which they have struck.

Resolved, That we will be peaceable, but nevertheless we must have sufficient for our day's labor to support our families.

Resolved, That we deem it incompatible with the safety of our citizens and in direct violation of their charters to allow boys from 16 to 18 years of age to drive who are not able to do the duties of drivers.

Resolved, That we tender our most heartfelt thanks to the Press of the City and also to the public at large for their sympathy for us and our cause.

During the progress of the meeting many contributions to the drivers' fund were made. Subscription papers have been opened at the following-named places, and all who favor the car drivers in their present trouble are requested to contribute whatever they can afford toward the support of such non-working drivers as have families dependent upon them: L. Meyers, No. 753 Sixth-avenue; M. Green, Opera House, Fourteenth-street and Fourth-avenue; L. Nixon, corner Fourteenth-street and Fourth-avenue; Windust, No. 11 Park-row; Van Dyke & O'Halloran, No. 18 Park-row; Astor House.

The Third and Fourth avenue and a few other lines were running a few cars last night up to a late hour.

At 7:30 o'clock last night, the breaking of the pole of one of the Third-avenue Railroad cars, when near Twenty-ninth-street, stopped the cars. A multitude soon collected, and in the disorder incident thereto, a driver, whose name could not be ascertained, was assaulted.

Capt. WILSON, of the Twenty-first Precinct, with his reserve, promptly repaired to the spot and soon dispersed the crowd. The cars then proceeded without further trouble.

At about 9 o'clock last night travel on the Third-avenue Railroad was interrupted by several persons attacking the new drivers and beating them severely.

BOARD OF EDUCATION.

Colored Schools—Ward Apportionment—Other Matters.

President MCLEAN resumed his chair at the meeting of the Board of Education last evening. After routine business a communication was received from the School Trustees of the Fifth Ward, recommending that Colored School No. 5 be closed on the 25th instant, and that the pupils be removed to such suitable place as the Board's officers may designate. The subject was referred to the Building Committee, with power.

Commissioner WARREN introduced a resolution instructing a Committee to institute inquiry concerning the expediency of closing all the colored schools in the City on the 31st of August next.

Commissioner MILLER feared that an African was somewhere concealed in the fence, and he desired to learn whether the Commissioner would not follow this resolution with a proposal to admit colored children into all the City schools.

Commissioner WARREN explained that under the revised law the Board of Education assumes control of all schools in the City, and that, inasmuch as he desired to give the colored population good schools, and as many of their schools are to-day taught by incompetent teachers, he could see no manner of remedying the evil except by a dismissal of all teachers employed in these schools, and a selection of the best of them in the reorganization.

After remarks by Commissioners VANCE and FARR, Commissioner MILLER moved that the resolution lie on the table, and Commissioner WARREN withdrew it altogether.

FROM SUPERINTENDENT RANDALL.

A memorial was received from City Superintendent S. S. RANDALL, calling the Board's attention to the clause of the by-laws touching the granting of certificates of qualification. Under the present system the Superintendent is required, in all cases, to certify to the moral character, learning, and ability to teach, of such of the candidates presented as, in his judgment, possess the requisite qualifications. Mr. RANDALL says that a candidate's ability to teach can be tested only by practical experience for such a length of time as will enable the candidate to develop his or her capabilities in this respect; experience having shown that the most unimpeachable moral character and the most undoubted scholastic excellence afford no certain guarantee of practical ability to teach. Mr. RANDALL adds, that the possession of the highest intellectual qualifications is not unfrequently found in connection with utter inability to communicate knowledge and instruction to the young, or to maintain that order and discipline which are so necessary in the schoolroom. The Superintendent, therefore, proposed a modification of the law, and the subject was referred to the Committee on By-Laws.

REPORT OF THE AUDITING COMMITTEE.

The Auditing Committee reported favorably upon the following bills, and the Board ordered them paid:

C. S. Westcott & Co., for printing, binding and indexing 2,000 copies of the Manual and 750 copies of the Directory for 1866	$2,655 44
Manhattan Gaslight Company, gas consumed at the Hall of the Board from Dec. 14, 1865, to March 14, 1866	127 31
Thomas Boese, cash paid for checks and postage stamps for Clerk and Superintendent's offices, cartage, express charges and sundries, from April 4 to April 18, as per cash-book	194 60
Burnton Brothers, stationery for Clerk's office	158 75

The Manual is a handsome, small duodecimo volume of 400 pages, printed in heavily-leaded bourgeois type on fine writing paper. The index is expanded so as to cover 47 pages, each measuring, in the language of the Typographia, about 1,200 ems. The Directory, which is a mere compilation of the laws, for pocket use, is a work about one-quarter the size of the Manual.

OTHER MATTERS.

The New-York Protestant Episcopal Public School Society sent in a protest against the appraisement on the property at Nos. 95 and 97 Greenwich-street and Nos. 42 and 44 Trinity-place, alleging that the arbitrators had made a serious mistake in their figures, and intimating that if the Board attempts to hold the Society to the awards of the appraisers appeal may be taken to the Courts. Commissioners ALLEN, DUPIGNAC, FARR, HAYES, MILLER and VANCE discussed the question at length, and it appearing that the appraisement had been made by two gentlemen of undoubted integrity—one appointed by the Society and the other by the Board—it was the opinion of the Commissioners that the Society ought to accept the awards without murmur. Finally, the subject was referred to the Committee on Buildings, with power.

The Finance Committee reported that the Board has not the financial ability to purchase, this year, and pay $8,000 for a site in One Hundred and Fifteenth-street for a new Grammar School in the Twelfth Ward.

Commissioners ALLEN and LANDON protested, saying that the schools in the Twelfth Ward are excessively crowded, and that the Board of Health is about to report against one of the school edifices of that Ward; but notwithstanding the protest, the Board adopted the Committee's report.

The new school laws and the act changing the name of the Free Academy and giving it the title of the College of the City of New-York were read and ordered on record.

Commissioner WARREN reported that the Board's Committee had entertained a committee of schoolmen from Boston, and taken them through thirteen departments of our schools.

The Lying-In Asylum.

The annual meeting of the officers and patrons of the New-York Lying-In Asylum was held yesterday afternoon at that institution.

Mrs. JOHN W. SCHMIDT, the First Directress, presided, and the proceedings were opened with prayer by the Rev. Dr. BURCHARD, of the Twelfth-street Presbyterian Church, who continued the religious exercises by reading a selection of Scripture.

The annual report was read by Dr. BURCHARD, as also that of the Resident Physician, Dr. T. B. STERLING. From the latter the following statistics are obtained:

Number of confinements in the house, 94; children born, 94. Of the children born in the house there were—males, 56; females, 38. The condition of the children at birth was as follows: Living and healthy, 84; feeble, 4; malformed, 1; stillborn, 5. The number of women received into the house during the year was 105. Of these 87 left in good health and 12 remain to be confined. There has been but one death among the inmates. In addition to 94 cases in the house, 324 women were attended by the district physicians at their homes. The total number of cases attended since the establishment of the institution is 14,785. The report also states that for four years no death had occurred in the institution among the patients during the progress of labor or after confinement.

The treasurer's report prepared by Mrs. SARAH B. NEVINS, was next read, from which it appeared that the receipts during the year, including a balance of $1,947 85, were $5,045, and that at present there is $1,068 34 in the treasury.

The following officers were elected to serve during the ensuing year:

First Directress—Mrs. John W. Schmidt; Second Directress—Mrs. George Wotherspoon; Third Directress—Mrs. Bache McEvers; Fourth Directress—Mrs. Thomas A. Emmet; Fifth Directress—Mrs. Thomas Cock; Sixth Directress—Mrs. James Brooks; Treasurer—Mrs. J. B. Nevins; Secretary—Mrs. Geo. J. Cornell.

DANIEL S. DICKINSON.

Meeting of the Bar—Resolutions—Addresses by Prominent Members.

The pressure upon our advertising columns precludes the publication of a detailed report of the interesting and impressive proceedings in the United States Court-room yesterday afternoon. A meeting was held of the members of the Bar, presided over by Judge BETTS, at which the prominent members of the Judiciary and Bar assembled to testify their appreciation of the virtues and accomplishments of the late DANIEL S. DICKINSON, and their regret at his decease.

After the meeting was called to order, Ex-Judge PIERREPONT moved the following

RESOLUTIONS.

Resolved, That by the sudden death of DANIEL S. DICKINSON, while in the high and responsible office of District-Attorney of the United States, the Bar has been deprived of one of its highest ornaments, and the Government of one of its most faithful officers.

Resolved, That in the late DANIEL S. DICKINSON we recognize an eminent example of a zealous, fearless and able advocate, and of a sagacious, incorruptible and patriotic statesman; that we shall ever remember him as a man of enlarged understanding, of quick perceptions, of noble impulses, of generous and kindliest sympathy with his fellow-men; as a true and devoted friend, of a warm heart and an honest mind; as one of purest domestic virtues, and in every relation of private life as faithful, loving and beloved; and in the places of public trust which he so often and so honorably filled as always upright, courteous and just.

Resolved, That while we tender our sympathy and our condolence to the bereaved wife and the afflicted family of the deceased, we find mingled with our sorrow consolation from the fact that he died after an active and useful life devoted to the service of his country and to the good of his fellow-men; and that he passed from the busy scenes of his earnest life serene and peaceful, reposing with unfaltering trust upon the Christian's hope of a glorious immortality.

Resolved, That the proceedings of this meeting, duly attested by its officers, be presented to the family of the deceased, and that a copy of these resolutions be published in the journals of the City.

In an address marked by deep feeling and affectionate interest he narrated the particulars attending the later days of the deceased, his religious and domestic experiences, and read the following beautiful tribute to Mrs. DICKINSON, written but five days before his decease by the departed husband:

TO LYDIA.

In youth's bright morn, when life was new,
And earth was fresh with dew and flowers,
And love was warm and friendship true,
And hope and happiness were ours,

We started hand and hand to thread
The chequered, changeful path of life;
And with each other, trusting, tread,
The battle-fields of worldly strife.

We ranged in walks obscure, unseen;
O'er rugged steep, through vale and glen,
And climbed along the hillsides green,
Unmindful of the future then.

We caught the song of earliest birds,
We culled the loveliest flowers of Spring,
We plighted love in whispering words,
And time sped by on fairy wing.

And as it passed, new joys were found,
And life was gladdened by the birth
Of prattling babes, who clustered round,
To cheer with smiles our humble hearth.

Fate thrust us forth before the world,
And phantoms whispered earthly fame,
Where hope's proud banner is unfurled,
And happiness too oft a name.

Thus lured along, we rode the dark
And foaming tide of public life,
And proudly dared, with slender bark,
The elements of storm and strife.

But storm and strife, thank Heaven, have passed,
The night has fled and morning come!
And we, tossed mariners, at last,
Returned once more to hearth and home.

But of the loved ones God had given,
Two have returned—two sunk to rest;
In life's gay morning called to Heaven,
To the bright mansions of the blest.

They sleep amidst Spring Forest's glades,
Where flows its streamlet murmuring waves,
And oft at evening's gentle shades,
We'll weep beside their early graves.

Judge BOSWORTH followed in a biographical address, describing in eloquent terms the early struggles and successes of Mr. DICKINSON, and tracing the fullness of his career from its inception to its close.

Mr. KIRKLAND paid a glowing tribute to the learning and accomplishments of Mr. DICKINSON, making marked notice of the opportunity afforded men of industry, determination and perseverance in this country, to rise above the difficulties and embarrassments thrown in their path by humble origin, poverty and lack of social and educational privilege.

Gen. DIX, who served during five consecutive annual sessions in the United States Senate with Mr. DICKINSON, very appropriately and graphically remembered the forensic power, the intellectual superiority and political efficiency of the deceased, in a brief but thoughtful and elegantly worded address.

WM. M. EVARTS, Esq., with whom Mr. DICKINSON was engaged in trying his last cause, the famous Meteor case, alluded to the sudden and unexpected decease of Mr. DICKINSON, and after complimenting his earnestness and fidelity to conviction, outlined his political career, and his professional life as developed since his residence in this City.

JAMES T. BRADY, Esq., feelingly expressed the high regard he entertained for Mr. DICKINSON, of whose hospitality he had partaken, and with whose genial love for man he so heartily sympathized. While sorrowing with the bereaved partner of the deceased, he had no tear to shed for his death, as for all men is appointed a time to die by One whose fiat is indisputable.

There is a God on high who stoops to feed
The humming bird, and catch the tiny seed
Which falls from lovely wild flowers,
And in turn He'll garner up man's soul,
That precious germ, which but takes root
On earth to bloom on high,
A bright immortal flow'r that cannot die.

The proceedings were concluded by the movement of a resolution by D. C. BIRDSALL, Esq., as follows:

I could not, if I desired, add one word to the many eloquent eulogies that we have just listened to respecting our dear departed friend.

It has been truthfully said that he spent a long life in useful service of his country.

He has gone to that bourne whence no traveler returns, leaving as an inheritance to his daily loved family but little except a spotless reputation, and a name that will live in fond remembrance in the hearts of the American people.

I think it but proper that the citizens of New-York (more especially the Bar) should take some action toward the erection of a mortuary memorial, in commemoration of his many virtues, that future generations may look upon it and say, "Here lies the remains of a great and good man."

It may truly be said of him that his life was gentle, and the elements so mixed in him that nature might stand up and say to all the world he was a man. I therefore offer the following resolutions:

Resolved, That a Committee of five, consisting Hon. JOSEPH A. BOSWORTH, Hon. JOHN A. DIX, Hon. HENRY E. DAVIES, Hon. EDWARDS PIERREPOINT, and Hon. WM. F. ALLEN, who shall be authorized to take such measures as may to them seem most expedient to raise a fund for and cause the erection of a suitable monument to the memory of the late DANIEL S. DICKINSON.

Resolved, That the Committee so appointed correspond and act with like Committees that may hereafter be appointed for this purpose at Binghamton or elsewhere.

Laying the Corner Stone of a New Jewish Synagogue in Thirty-ninth-street.

The congregation known as "Adas Jeshurun" was organized in July, 1864, and now numbers some eighty members. Since then they have been unprovided with a fitting place for worship. Yesterday their Rabbi, Rev. Dr. ADLER, laid the corner stone of a new synagogue now in process of erection in Thirty-ninth-street, between Seventh and Eighth-avenues. The lot occupied by the building measures 99 feet in length and 75 in width, and cost the congregation $15,500. A committee of five was appointed as a Building Committee to raise the required fund—about $40,000. One-half this has been already subscribed, and the prospect was so fair for the completion of the sum required that the Committee deemed it prudent to construct the edifice now going up.

The ceremony of laying the corner stone was quite interesting. The first floor of the building was laid temporarily, and a pulpit placed at the one extreme and an organ and choir at the other. After singing by the choir, Rev. Dr. ADLER, of the Temple Emanuel, on Twelfth-street, preached in German; after him the President, A. TUSKA, Esq., addressed the assemblage, narrating the above financial story of the origin and progress of the congregation. Having concluded his speech, he was presented with a silver trowel by CHAS. L. BENHEIMER, and he then placed in a tin box, prepared to receive them, the following documents: The Charter of the Congregation; a copy of the Constitution of the United States; list of officers of the congregation; names of the President, Vice-President and others holding office in the present Government; several Jewish journals; a copy of the NEW-YORK TIMES and of the World; and a photograph of Sir MOSES MONTEFIORE, Jewish patriarch and philanthropist, now on a pilgrimage, in his eightieth year, to Jerusalem. The box being sealed, was then carried and placed in the aperture in the corner stone prepared for it, wherein it was duly sealed.

This ceremony concluded, some remarks were made by Rev. Dr. TUSKA, of Tennessee, and the blessing given, when the congregation dispersed.

Board of Fire Commissioners.

At a meeting of the Board of Fire Commissioners, held at Firemen's Hall yesterday afternoon, the following appointments and promotions were made: Assistant Foreman, MICHAEL KELLY, of Metropolitan Engine Company No. 3, promoted Foreman of same Company; private JAMES HORN to be Assistant Foreman of same Company. Two returned veterans, and members of the old Department, named JOHN A. KEELING and JAMES FOSTER TAYLOR, were appointed firemen and assigned for duty to Hook and Ladder Company No. 10, and Engine Company No. 13. THOMAS HAINES was transferred from Engine Company No. 22 to Engine Company No. 16, and J. J. GILMORE from No. 16 to No. 22; JOHN BRACKEN from Hook and Ladder No. 8 to Engine Company No. 16. A communication from Prof. THOS. EGLESTON, Jr., of the School of Mines, Columbia College, thanking the Department for efficient service at the late fire at the College. The dismissal of HUGH BENNETT, an employe at the Repair-yard, by the Chief Engineer, for intoxication, was confirmed. Several complaints against members of the Department were received, and referred to Committee on Discipline. The resignations of J. GRIMES, JOHN F. GROGAND, (Foreman No. 13 Engine,) and CHAS. W. GRINNELL were accepted. The Committee on Supplies were authorized to purchase 15,000 feet of hose from S. S. VANDERHOEF at the rate of $1 62½ per foot. A contract for two sets of wheels for Hook and Ladder Companies Nos. 2 and 7 was awarded to J. H. SICKLE for $160 each set, he being the lowest bidder. On a report from the Committee on Appointments and Discipline, W. E. SANBEG, foreman of Engine Company No. 16, was dismissed for absence without leave; C. F. WATERBURY, of Engine Company No. 16, was fined ten days' pay for intoxication; WM. CAVANAGH, of Engine Company No. 24, was fined three days' pay for disrespectful language to the foreman. After some other unimportant business, the Board adjourned.

BROOKLYN NEWS.

IMPROVEMENTS—THE "OLD STEAMBOAT" TO BE REMODELED.—For the past 25 years a piece of ground forming an angle, bounded by Fulton-avenue, Willoughby and Pearl streets, has been occupied by a collection of old wooden buildings called Linden-row, but from the peculiar shape of the plot upon which they stand, was more familiarly known as "The Old Steamboat." An effort was made some time since to secure the plot as a site upon which to erect a building to be occupied by the Post-office and United States Courts; but in consequence of the neglect of Congress to make the necessary appropriations, the project was abandoned. Now, the owner, Mr. SAMUEL A. WILLOUGHBY, intends to improve the block by converting the lower floors into stores and the upper portions into offices and dwellings. The dimensions on Fulton-avenue are 200 feet, the same on Willoughby-street, and 100 feet on Pearl-street. The structure will rest on iron columns, with wooden lintels. The fronts will be entirely of plate glass. The frame portion above the store floors will occupy two and one-half stories, the whole to be so remodeled as to make them a credit instead of an eye-sore to an otherwise fine neighborhood. The improvements are to be commenced on the 1st of May, and completed by the middle of July. The entire contract price is $35,000. Six buildings adjoining the Long Island Bank in Fulton-street, one near High-street and another near Pierrepont, are all being remodeled on the same plan.

STREET ROBBERY.—Officer HOYT, of the Forty-fifth Precinct, was attracted to the corner of Third and Grand streets, E. D., about an hour before daylight, yesterday morning, by repeated cries of "Murder!" On his arrival at the point, he saw a man lying on the sidewalk and three ruffians standing over him rifling his pockets. On seeing the officer the highwaymen fled, but he pursued them, discharging his revolver repeatedly without effect. After an exhausting chase, the officer finally succeeded in arresting one of the fellows, who, on being taken to the Police-station, rendered the name of BERNARD MARKEY. The person attacked was Mr. CHARLES CASEY, of No. 21 Marshall-street, and he was robbed of a wallet containing about $30. On being taken before Justice DAILEY, both complainant and accused were held—MARKEY on a charge of robbery on the highway, and CASEY for alleged intoxication.

A JOHNSON MASS MEETING IN BROOKLYN.—A mass meeting of those citizens of Brooklyn who sustain the restoration policy of President JOHNSON, is to be held at the Academy of Music on Wednesday evening of next week. The speakers announced as expected to be present are: Senator Cowan, of Pennsylvania; Senator Doolittle, of Wisconsin; Major-Gen. W. H. Rosseau, of Kentucky; Major-Gen. John H. Logan, of Illinois; Hon. Wm. L. Sharkey, of Mississippi; Hon. Montgomery Blair, of Maryland; Hon. Green Clay Smith, of Kentucky; Hon. John Van Buren, and James T. Brady, Esq.

FELL DEAD IN THE STREET.—Yesterday afternoon a man was seen to stagger, and then attempting to sustain himself by holding to a fence, in Henry-street, near Pacific. Several physicians in the Long Island College Hospital, opposite, observing the man's condition, came to his aid. Drs. DUBOIS, COFFIN and BRUSH, finding him in a swoon, applied the usual restoratives, but on a more critical examination ascertained that life was extinct. The name of deceased is RICHARD O'GRADY. His family reside at No. 240 Henry-street, to which place the body was taken by the Forty-third Precinct Police.

NITRO-GLYCERINE IN THE CUSTOM-HOUSE.—Several citizens becoming alarmed by the recent accident in San Francisco, requested Fire-Marshal BAKER to investigate whether there was any nitroglycerine in this City. That gentleman learned that upward of 300 pounds of this dangerous chemical was stored in one of the bonded warehouses in this City, awaiting delivery to its consignee. Mr. BAKER will to-day consult with the Mayor as to the proper means which should be taken to remove this fulminate beyond the City limits.

ROBBERIES IN THE COUNTY.—Some half dozen houses in the neighborhood of Windsor Terrace, a short distance beyond the city line, were feloniously entered and robbed, on Tuesday night last. Considerable property of value appears to have been carried off. Yesterday, three fine silk-dresses, and several articles of men's clothing, supposed to be the proceeds of these robberies, were found on the track of the Coney Island Railroad.

RUN OVER.—FRANCIS MCGEE, a youth, whose parents reside at the intersection of North Sixth and Seventh streets, E. D., was run over yesterday afternoon by a wagon driven by FRANCIS WEBER. One of the boy's legs was broken, and he was otherwise injured. He was taken home by Sergeant HUGH MADDOX, of the Forty-sixth Precinct Police.

BURGLARY.—The fringe factory of Mr. JAMES CARPENTER, on the corner of Kent and Lafayette avenues, was feloniously entered on Tuesday night, and robbed of fringe and chenille to the value of about $400. A portion of the stolen property was found in a stable in the vicinity yesterday morning.

SUDDEN DEATH.—Mr. C. L. DENNINGTON, residing at No. 128 Livingston-street, died suddenly on Tuesday evening, as supposed, from apoplexy. He had just returned from Prof. DOREMUS' lecture at the Academy of Music, but no sooner entered the house than he was prostrated by death.

ACCIDENT.—Mr. JESSE GAY, of No. 624 Pacific-street, Brooklyn, while riding in a Broadway car through Church-street, sustained a compound fracture of an arm. It appears that his arm was out of a window, while passing a truck, with which it came in contact.

"I Am a Man More Sinned Against Than Sinning," cried King LEAR; and we think any man might say the same thing who had been persuaded by false reports to purchase a Hat from any one but KNOX, of No. 151 Fulton-street and No. 533 Broadway. The pilgrimage of life is hard enough at best; but when it must be traveled without wearing KNOX's Hats it is almost a justifiable act to make one's own "quietus," and throw down the burden of existence.

Being free from Alcohol in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing STRENGTH, VIGOR, AND NEW LIFE into all parts of the system, and building up an IRON CONSTITUTION.
Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy from weak, sickly, suffering creatures, to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.
A pamphlet of 32 pages, containing certificates of cures and recommendations from some of the most eminent physicians, clergymen and others, besides much other valuable and interesting matter, will be sent FREE to any one sending us their name and address.
